GOING... GOING... GONE!

Breaking out of the cells of the old Wilmington police station is no longer a challenge, thanks to the giant claw which demolished the entire building last week. Like a steel Godzilla, it tore the building to shreds in only a few hours.

The new police station is in the Public Safety Building the police share with the Wilmington Fire Department. (Maureen Lamoureux photos)

Hooper appointment

Defensive selectmen hammered by residents

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - At its meeting on June 25, the Board of Selectmen defended its June 11 decision to appoint George W. Hooper to fill a vacancy on the board while residents made known their anger and disappointment in regards to the process by which the board made its selection.

At the June 11 meeting, Selectmen Robert Cain, Scott Garrant and Robert Palmer unanimously chose Hooper, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, to replace outgoing Selectman Michael Newhouse, who stepped down to pursue the available position of Town Counsel this summer. Controversy quickly followed the appointment, for audience members were angry that the process passed so quickly, took place in the absence of one selectman, and failed to recognize Raymond Lepore, who had formally expressed interest in filling the position.

Once the outrage began, Selectman Chairman Robert J. Cain stated that the actions taken by the board were done so in authority provided to it by the Town Charter. In fact, at the June 25 Selectmen meeting, Chairman Cain quoted the Town Charter directly, in hopes of reiterating such authority and ending a two-week public relations nightmare for himself and Selectmen Garrant and Palmer.

According to the Town Charter,

"When a vacancy occurs among the selectmen by reason of death, resignation, change of residence from the town, or other disability, the remaining selectmen shall have the power to fill the vacancy until the next town election, at which the voters shall elect a selectman for the remainder of the unexpired term."

To further support the board's appointment of Hooper, Chairman Cain asked Town Manager Michael Cairra to research past examples in which vacancies on the Board of Selectmen had to be filled. Town Manager Cairra produced four such examples that have occurred in the years since the charter was established in 1950:

1) In September of 1981, Aldo Cairra resigned from the Board of Selectmen and was replaced by his son, Michael Cairra, on the same evening. Michael Cairra had not been a candidate in the prior election.

2) In November of 1977, James Miceli resigned from the board when he was elected to be a state representative. Madeline McKee, who had also not been a candidate in the prior election, was appointed to fill the vacancy later that day.

3) On March 14, 1960, Francis Haggerty resigned from the board. Three days later, John Brooks, who did not run for the office beforehand, had been appointed to replace Haggerty.

4) In November of 1954, H.J. Wall resigned from the Board of Selectmen, and his seat remained vacant until the spring election in

Lightning strikes Clark Street home

By JAKE PETERSON

WILMINGTON - Remember the big thunderstorm last week?

Just before 9 p.m. on Wednesday, June 20, Wilmington firefighters were called to a duplex on Clark Street to investigate a lightning strike on a chimney there. After the investigation, firefighters left with a report that included only a broken chimney and some scorch marks on an interior wall.

Six hours later, things were different.

In an emergency, firefighters returned to the white colonial Clark Street home a little before 3 a.m. to extinguish a fire blazing on the roof.

Authorities found the existence of the blaze to be peculiar, given that their investigation of the property six hours earlier had been thoroughly conducted with the use of the town's new thermal imaging camera.

According to Fire Chief Daniel Stewart, such cameras are used to detect hot spots on-site, but cannot see through walls. The camera senses temperature changes but would not notice smoldering remains of the lightning strike if it were not hot enough to be picked up by the thermal camera.

When asked about safety and lightning strikes, Chief Stewart had nothing but praise for the homeowners, saying, "The vigilance on the part of the homeowner, Ed Connelly, and his working fire detectors, are to be credited with limiting this to a property damage fire only."

According to Chief Stewart, damage to the residence was restricted to its third floor because the firefighters had gotten to know the floor plan of the home during their previous visit six hours earlier.

Eight people made a safe exit from the house and were displaced from their home due to the fire. Firefighter Linda Giles, who is known for her kind heart towards animals, successfully pulled five cats from the home, all unharmed.

Although the cause of the fire is still listed as undetermined, it is possible that smoldering remains, spawned from the lightning strike, could have caused this fire. The origin of the fire was pinpointed to a concealed area behind a kneewall, and the investigation is continuing.

According to Chief Stewart, working fire detectors on each floor of a home rank number one in measures taken for keeping one's home safe from fire. It is also crucial to check such detectors regularly and make sure that they are working properly.

Coming in 2002: Full Day K

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - At its June 20 meeting, the Wilmington School Committee voted five-to-one in favor of moving forward with the implementation of a full-day kindergarten program that will take effect at the start of the 2002-2003 academic year.

Says Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell, "I think that this vote represents a major step forward in creating a higher quality education in Wilmington. Full Day Kindergarten will make a major difference in the acquisition of literacy in the younger children."

The lone dissenting vote came from School Committee member Suzanne Clarkin, who at previous meetings expressed her reservations about the implementation of Full Day Kindergarten by mentioning pressing needs at the high school and the volatility of the program's available funds.

The new program will not be the only option for parents preparing to usher their children into the Wilmington School System. The current half-day kindergarten program will remain an option for those who prefer it. However, those parents who do wish to have their child participate in the upcoming full-day program will have to participate in a lottery in which students will be chosen to take part in such a class.

According to Superintendent

O'Donnell, the number of children who will be chosen from the lottery to participate in Full Day Kindergarten will only be determined once the budget for the Fiscal Year of 2003 is crafted. Given this, the number of classrooms that will be available for the full-day kindergarten students has yet to be determined, as well.

Only children who turn the age of five on or before August 31 in the year 2002 will be eligible to participate in the lottery. Parents of children who meet this age requirement are encouraged to call either the Boutwell or the Wildwood Early Childhood Centers at, respectively, 978-694-6070 or 978-694-6010.

The 4th in Wilmington celebrates its 20th

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Most anyone viewing the way Wilmington celebrates the Fourth of July might assume that this town has been doing up the Fourth big-time for a long time. Like maybe since 1776?

Wrong. Although Wilmington did send Minutemen to the Battle of Concord in 1775, the Fourth of July celebration in Wilmington is only 20 years old.

Or you could say it's 21. Or 25.

If you can believe it, for an unknown number of years there was no celebration of the Fourth of July in Wilmington. This writer has memories of a large bonfire held at Rotary Park back in the 1950s. But through the 1960s, there was nothing other than a few kids with firecrackers.

Then in the early 1970s, the Wilmington Kiwanis Club began holding a ham and bean dinner. Things changed in 1976, the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Wilmington had a tremendous celebration. The Kiwanis Club held its ham and bean dinner on the common, there was square dancing, a tremendous parade, and a 200-gun salute fired at midnight.

The following year, the Class of 1977 approached the Board of ConCom kicks off with Olin, ends with I-93 interchange

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - When the Conservation Commission met on Wednesday, June 20, it was the goings-on at the Olin Corporation on Eames Street that topped the agenda. Second in line at the meeting was the construction of a pergola on Chestnut Street. Finally, though, it was the continued public hearing for the interchange construction proposal at I-93/Route 125/Ballardvale Street that was, by far, the longest item of discussion.

• OLIN CORPORATION. Lake Poly needs further definition of its boundaries. Geoff Andrews, the wetlands scientist for OLIN, indicated to the commission that additional test borings within Lake Poly are necessary to determine the extent of the pond area.

Mr. Andrews said that there appears to be a layer of sediment that still needs to be characterized. In addition, the boring information will provide the details necessary to determine whether to cap the area or remove the sediments partially or completely. If the borings are taken soon, the results should be available in September.

The commission issued a negative determination, which will allow the applicants to proceed with their activities.

ADDING SUNSHINE TO THE SHADE. Tuesday, June 26 was a hot one, but Wilmington girls Chirstina Sullivan, left, and Lindsay McCarthy, right, had no problem finding some shade. In fact, they brought all things sun and summer to the shade when they drew rainbows and butterflies and flowers on the sidewalk at the Wilmington Memorial Library during one of the day's activities there. Tewksbury Library summer reading program

"First Night Celebration" a rousing success

TEWKSBURY - The "First Night Celebration" at the Tewksbury Public Library was a rousing success as many local families gathered together for the kickoff of this year's summer reading program. Children attended performances presented by storytellers Papa Joe and Alicia Quintano; made paper plate masks, had their faces painted and enjoyed free ice cream sundaes courtesy of the Friends of the Tewksbury Library.

Performers were made possible by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency of the Mass. Cultural Council. Children also took advantage of the Friends' used book sale to stock up on books for summer reading. The celebration was planned with this year's state wide theme "First of All Read" in mind. Children's Librarian Judi Segur and Children's Specialist Pat Powers spent several days during the last few weeks visiting the four elementary schools to discuss the library's summer reading program with students.

Pat and Judi are happy to announce that over 500 students from preschool through the eighth grade have already registered for the program. A challenge has been issued to the students to join forces and read a ton of books this summer. There is still time for students to register for the program and join in the effort to reach this goal.

Many fun filled activities have been planned to fill out the summer program and a full calendar of events is available at the library. Along with craft projects, a writing program, picnics, story hours and a parade, the Children's Department staff is pleased to offer the following series of special performers. The staff encourages parents to pay close attention to recommended ages for the various events to avoid disappointment.

June 27, 3:30, Caribbean for Kids, ages three and up.

June 28, 1:30, Tanglewood Marionettes: Fairy Circus, ages three and up.

June 28, 6 p.m., Tanglewood Marionettes: Arabian Adventure for ages five and up.

July 10, 2 p.m., Storyteller John Porcino for ages five and up.

July 11, 7 p.m., Ellen and Peter Allard Family Music Program, all ages.

July 26, 6:30, How We First Got to the Moon, ages five and up.

August 2, 7 p.m., Meet Leonardo Da Vinci, ages five and up.

August 10, Star Lab (reservations required) ages five and up.

August 17, 2 p.m. Ice Fire Theater, ages five and up.

August 23, 6 p.m. Mike the Hat Man and family picnic.

Caribbean for Kids and Fairy Circus are made possible by a DOE grant administered by the Community Partnership for Children. All other performances are made possible by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency of the Mass. Cultural Council.

MUNICIPAL BONDS: ARE THEY RIGHT FOR YOU?

Municipal bonds fund the spending of cities and towns. As investments, they don't sound exciting; they don't appreciate like hot stocks. What they do offer is a steady stream of income that usually is exempt from federal income tax. For those in high-tax states or cities, there's another plus: locally floated bonds are usually tax-exempt from state or local income tax as well.

Munis usually pay a lower return than corporate bonds, but their tax-free status more than makes up for this, if you're in a high enough bracket. How? Divide the tax-free yield by 1 minus your marginal federal tax rate. Say you're in the 31 percent bracket and a bond yields 5.2 percent. For someone in a higher bracket, it's worth even more.

It takes research to choose individual bonds. A bond fund provides diversification, extra safety, and professional management.

Should you consider municipal bonds? Discuss your options with the tax and finance people at

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for carrying a torch for Special Olympics

Dear Editor:
We would like to publicly thank all of the police who ran in the Torch Run for the Massachusetts Special Olympics on Friday, June 15.

It was a very hot evening, but runners from Wilmington, Tewksbury, Lowell, Reading, Winchester and the police academy had an incredible run that went from Lowell to Boston.

These runners did this to raise funds, to demonstrate their commitment to Special Olympics, and to raise public awareness about the important role that sports play in the life of these special athletes.

All of you deserve our praise and our thanks for this tremendous effort and for all of the great work that you do in representing our communities.

Marge and Keith Peabody

Planning Board member Diorio served with "great distinction"

Dear Editor:
Last Tuesday's Planning Board meeting marked a noteworthy occasion. It was Jim Diorio's final meeting as a Planning Board member.

Jim served on the Board for nine years with great distinction. When I was first appointed to the Board in 1998, Jim was the Chairman. I was constantly impressed by his detailed knowledge of subdivision control matters and his ability to direct our public meetings so effectively. He demonstrated great leadership on many of the most complex and controversial projects that have come before the Board. His experience and insight always resulted in the improvement of each project, whether a residential subdivision or a site plan for commercial or industrial development. The town has benefited greatly from his long service on the Board.

I am personally indebted to Jim for the guidance he has offered during my term as a board member, and I know that the entire Board will miss Jim's wisdom and perspective on Board matters as well as his timely wit.

We thank Jim for his many years of excellent public service and we wish him well in his new endeavors.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week we received a letter to the editor from a reader who had his own take on the matter surrounding the appointment of George W. Hooper to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. The letter, which was relatively supportive of the selectmen and their decision, was simply signed "Bill." We at the Town Crier would like to publish this letter, so we request that "Bill" contact us at 978-658-2346 and provide us with his last name so that we may do so. Once the writer of the letter is properly identified, we can publish it and sign it as "Name Withheld Upon Request" if that is what "Bill" wishes. Thank you.

Living in Our Smiles In Memory of Dick Scanlon

It was your smile that failed
To cease
That made the future
Look so much more fulfilling.
Seeing your years decorated
With adventure and glory
Eased the pressure of
The future.
Your understanding of our minds,
And the struggle of life
Held us together.
When authority wouldn't listen,
You would;
Grinning in laughter,
Knowing in wisdom
That we'd make it through.
We've found the meaning of TEAM
As you showed us unity,
And true friendship.

As we grow,
Evolve
We will change
But never --
Never will we forget what you've given us.
You've given us lines of laughter,
And pictures of someone who's seen it all
Yet,
Still clutched to the child within himself
You've made a mark.

We'll chuckle as we remember
Your wild animations
We'll love you always -
For you've touched generations.
We'll miss you;
Your light that sparked
All of our imaginations.

You would not want us to cry,
So we shall trek on;
Complete our miles --
Knowing if we need you
Where we can find you:

Living forever
In all of our
Smiles

Letters to the Editor

In wake of June 11 selectmen meeting, it's time to change Wilmington's Town Charter

Dear Editor:
Is Wilmington waking up from its slumber yet? Are the residents getting angry about small town politics? The bigger question is, do the citizens have the will to return democracy to their town and demand the cessation of politics as usual?

This past election for Board of Selectmen had a decent turnout. Voter apathy seemed less apparent and the American spirit high as people came out to support a number of candidates hopeful for change. It was exciting and encouraging to see. Many of those candidates stated at the debates that they wanted to bring the people's voices back to town government. I, like many voters, believed. Unfortunately politics as usual took over and replaced democracy and promises, overshadowing the voice of the people.

At the June 11 Wilmington Board of Selectmen (BOS) meeting, Selectmen Bob Cain, Scott Garrant, and Bob Palmer appointed Finance Committee Chairman George W. Hooper to former Selectman Newhouse's vacant board seat. Mr. Lepore, who ran in the past election, unlike Mr. Hooper, received a hefty 1,056 votes and was just shy of the elected seat he sought by a mere 51 votes. Both newly elected BOS members, Mr. Garrant and Mr. Palmer, who ran against Lepore, spoke of how they thought Mr. Hooper was better qualified to fill the vacancy rather than Mr. Lepore. What happened to the election theme of bringing the voice of the people back to Town Government? What a disappointment! Both new members of the Board should have remembered the theme of the election that they just ran in. This decision should have been bigger than what they wanted or what they thought were good qualifications. They should have brought the voice of the people back to Town Government as promised and appointed who the people wanted and not who they or some concealed opinion felt was qualified as the best person for the job.

I hope this is a wake up call and opens the eyes of the citizens of this town. It is time to realize and deal with the power struggle between what the citizens want and need and what those in power want. I understand the existing Town Charter and understand the appointing procedure of a new board member by the existing board members. I don't agree with it, but understand that is what is written. It was clearly up to the board to make the appointment, but to make it without hearing from the people first, with a board member not present, and not recognizing who the people thought was qualified was wrong.

Maybe it has come time to change the Town Charter! The BOS positions are one of the few elected positions in the town. For instance, the Town Charter which governs the process gives our Town Manager czar-like powers. Officially this is called "The Town Manager Form of Government." However, this position of power is one not elected by the people but appointed by the Board of Selectmen. This form of government can breed politics and an abuse of power. It may be time for change.

An elected position should be earned by reaching out to the people. Because Mr. Hooper served as committee appointee does not necessarily mean he is more qualified and in tune with the people's needs. He did not canvas neighborhoods for weeks speaking to the residents as Mr. Lepore did. Two Town Meetings ago, Mr. Hooper stood up at town meeting and spoke on an article submitted by a citizen to establish an Open Space account to make funds available for possible future land acquisitions. Mr. Hooper, as Chairman of the Finance Committee, claimed with a strong, sure voice that "We have enough open space already, and the money to maintain it." The Finance Committee disapproved of the article and it did not pass. The Open Space Committee at the same meeting handed out results of a survey sent out to Wilmington citizens in which more than 1,400 citizens responded. Seventy-three percent of those respondents felt the town did not have enough undeveloped open space. Many were mystified by Mr. Hooper's statement. Now this newly appointed Selectman could have a say on what open space parcels, if any, will be acquired by the Town. Open Space was a major issue reverberating throughout the debates and campaigns and made the headlines during the past election for Board of Selectmen. Would the citizens of this town elect an official who thought we had plenty of open space and saw no need for more? Doubtful, but hard to say! Maybe next election we'll find out.

It is not my intent to insult Mr. Hooper or anyone for that matter. I credit him for his many years of service on the Finance Committee. It is my intent however, to denounce behind the scenes politics, to condemn the disregard to the will of the people, to raise awareness of the need to change our Town Charter, for it may not be serving democracy. Most importantly, my motivation is to ask the people of this town NOT to get discouraged, to keep hammering away to be heard, stand up for democracy and DON'T ever forget what happened at the June 11 Board of Selectmen's meeting when casting a vote in the future.

Keep the June 11 selectmen meeting fresh in your minds

Dear Editor:
Let me start by saying "politics as usual."

This past spring, I ran for the Board of Selectmen to bring honesty and truthfulness to it. I was an outsider. I am glad that I didn't win because it may have corrupted me and changed who I am. I am a servant for the people of Wilmington and will continue to be as long as I live.

Let me encourage the voters of Wilmington to have a long memory because elected officials can be voted out.

Let me encourage people to work on changing the Town Charter, so that it will allow the people to fill a vacancy on the Board of Selectmen, not the current selectmen on the board.

Enough can not be said about the matters surrounding the June 11 meeting in which Selectmen Cain, Garrant and Palmer appointed George W. Hooper to the board. I pray that it will not die.

Don't let apathy win! Don't give in! Keep fighting for what is right in your minds!

Let me also make a guess at the next Town Counsel - Mike Newhouse.

Thanks,
Daryn Marsh

Letters To The Editor

Support for Lepore will send a message

Dear Editor:
We are looking forward to the elections next spring, so that we can put as many signs on our lawn for Raymond Lepore that the law will allow.

We would like to convey a message to the "three wise men," Selectmen Cain, Garratt and Palmer. The people in the town of Wilmington will not forget what transpired at the June 11 Board of Selectmen meeting.

Sincerely,
David and Natalie Redfearn

The Aronofskys thank you for "generous thought and donations"

Dear Editor:
I would like to personally thank all of the kind residents and friends of Wilmington who generously donated to my fundraising effort for Breast Cancer Awareness. Through your generosity, we were able to raise $1325 that will be earmarked for Breast Cancer Awareness.

Thank you, Joe Ryan, for taking the time out of your busy day to appear on the program and doing a bang-up job cutting my hair on the air.

I would like to give special thanks to WCTV for allowing us to stay on the air past our scheduled one-hour time.

Thank you to my crew of volunteers who graciously took time out of their own evening and who helped with the success of the show.

I would also like to thank my guest MS August Gale, who is a "Reach for Recovery" volunteer from the American Cancer Society, for coming to Wilmington and sharing with us her thoughts on breast cancer awareness.

Once again, Heidi and I thank all of you for your generous thoughts and donations.

Sincerely,
Rick and Heidi Aronofsky

Defensive selectmen hammered by residents

March of the next year.

Selectman Michael McCoy, who had told the board in advance that he would not be able to attend the June 11 meeting, said that it was "insulting and disappointing" that he didn't have an opportunity to vote for a new board member. According to Selectman McCoy, he did not understand the rush to fill the vacancy and felt that the task to do so could have waited until September or October, in effect leaving the selection of a new Town Counsel to the four remaining members of the board. Citing an approach occasionally taken by the Redevelopment Authority, McCoy also suggested that the board should have held a public forum in which those interested in filling the vacancy could have had "five minutes" to explain why they should be chosen.

"Unfortunately," said McCoy, "the damage has been done. We need to pick up the pieces and move forward with the town's business."

Chairman Cain saw the matter a bit differently than McCoy. According to Cain, McCoy told him before the June 11 meeting that he did not have a candidate in mind to replace Newhouse. Cain also said that McCoy answered "so be it" when he told him that it was not the "will of the board" to wait until this fall to appoint the new selectman.

Selectman Scott Garrant expressed regret that he and his fellow selectmen had not conducted themselves differently during the process of making the appointment.

"I do regret two things," said Selectman Garrant. "We didn't give more of an opportunity for public comment, and we also didn't take the time to commend Mr. Lepore for his interest and willingness to serve."

During last spring's election, Raymond Lepore finished 51 votes behind Garrant, placing third out of seven candidates who had hoped to land one of the two seats on the board that were available. At the June 11 meeting and throughout the past two weeks, many residents have made it known that they felt that Lepore, not Hooper, should have been chosen to succeed Newhouse.

Selectman Cain, Garrant and Palmer maintained that they chose Hooper because they all found him most qualified. Lepore, who attended both meetings on June 11 and 25, maintained that he never had a chance to make his qualifications for the vacant seat known.

"I am disappointed in each of you," Lepore told the selectmen. "How do you know who I am or what my credentials are if none of you has ever asked me? How can you know if I know this community better than Mr. Hooper?"

Lepore has declared that he is running for selectman in next year's election, in which the seats of both Hooper and McCoy will be up for grabs. He said that his campaign is already gaining momentum because his position as a title 5 inspector has kept him in close communication with the people in town.

"I'm on the streets every day," he said. "I know how many years people have been living in this town and why they're fed up because I listen to them."

Lepore did not hide from the selectmen his belief that the board has been "stacked" in a manner that will ensure certain three-to-two votes from here on in.

"You're going to always have a three-to-two vote, and that's going to carry ten months of the town's time," said Lepore.

In response to a comment Lepore made about older residents wishing to leave town because Wilmington is not what it used to be, Cain mentioned the town's new and higher bond rating, lower taxes and freshly built middle school and public safety building as proof that the community has not suffered any sort of decline.

Said Cain, "When I hear that the community is going down hill, I don't see that."

Resident Karen West, who also attended the meeting, essentially told Cain that he was missing the point.

"Mr. Cain," said West, "the people are talking about community spirit, not monetary gain or losses."

At an earlier point in the meeting,

West asked Hooper why he did not run for one of the two open seats during the past election. When Hooper responded that he did not have the time because he was busy working on the town budget as the Finance Committee Chairman, West noted that other candidates were just as busy with their lives but found the time to run. In particular, West mentioned her own husband, Frank, who juggled his candidacy for selectman this past spring with his job as a realtor and position on the Historical Commission, and Daryn Marsh, who also ran for a spot on the board and maintained his responsibilities as a minister and full-time electrician.

Frank West, who attended the meeting with his wife, was disappointed that nobody contacted him about the vacancy on the board.

"Mr. Cain, my number is in the book," said West. "We talked a number of times. Is there a reason that you didn't call me? I'm disappointed with each member of the board that I wasn't asked and Mr. Lepore wasn't even considered."

Other members of the audience, such as Marilyn Cox and Eddie Loud, took issue with the board on a range of matters.

Cox told the board that she contacted the Town Manager's Office on June 11, asked if a new selectman was to be appointed that night, and was told that the only thing on the agenda was Newhouse's request to make a statement at the conclusion of the meeting. Cox also drew a contrast between the seemingly hasty appointment of the new selectman and the three-month-long process that has been designed to choose the new Town Counsel once Alan Altman retires.

At one point, Cox leapt out of her seat and shouted at Cain, who tried to say that it was unfair to rule out Hooper as a choice to fill the vacancy just because "somebody went out and stood on a corner" for a candidate who did run for the board.

"I worked for you, Mr. Cain," shot back an emotional Cox. "I believed in you. I liked the way you voted. Don't you tell me I'm standing on a corner wasting my time. If that's the way you think, then you're in the wrong business."

Cain attempted to convince Cox that he did not mean for his "corner" comment to be taken in such a manner.

Loud told the board that he was "appalled" that the vote to appoint Hooper lasted less than 40 seconds.

"You had two people interested in the position," said Loud, referring to Hooper and Lepore. "Both of them were at the meeting on June 11. You couldn't take five minutes of your precious time to discuss either one of them?"

When such a point was reiterated by Cox moments later, Cain said, "Don't get the impression that we wait until we get to a meeting to review what's going on. I thought about this (appointment) for a long time."

At one point, Selectman Garrant, as well, spoke of the process that led to his vote.

"I struggled with this situation for several weeks," said Garrant.

Despite such thought and preparation, though, it was the exclusion of the public and the quick vote at the June 11 meeting that seemed to shape residents' perspectives that the Hooper appointment was a case of, as one audience member said, "politics as usual."

Daryn Marsh, who also ran for selectman last spring, attended the meeting. He mentioned that he was glad that he did not win a seat on the board this past spring because he would not have wanted the "political system in this town to corrupt" him. He also announced that he will not run against next year.

Marsh offered this piece of advice to the selectmen:

"Some people in town have long memories," said Marsh. "I recommend that those of you on the board pay attention. Make amends. Apologize for indiscretions. Admit when you make mistakes. Don't get forced into admitting them."

Concluded Marsh, "You'll find that the public will react a little better rather than think of conspiracies or back room politics."

4th in Wilmington celebrates its 20th

Selectmen and said they wanted to build a gazebo on the Common as their graduation gift to the town. The selectmen gave their approval, and for the rest of the summer, the new graduates put their energy into the project. They received some expert help from Charlie Cushing, Jack Baldwin and master carpenter Joe Filipowicz.

The Fourth of July celebration came into full bloom with the town's 250th anniversary in 1980. Although the actual anniversary is on September 25, the anniversary committee decided to hold events throughout the year.

The highlight of the celebration came on the Fourth of July. The event lasted a week, with all sorts of local organizations taking part. The celebration gave many clubs an opportunity to perform a service and gain needed exposure. It gave townspeople an opportunity to get together with their friends and neighbors.

That event went off so well that people in town thought it would be great to have a Fourth of July celebration every year.

Voila! The 250th Anniversary Committee sort of reorganized and became the Fourth of July Committee. Thus, the Fourth of July Committee is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year.

Jack Cushing headed things up, but there was plenty of work for everyone to do. The organization was a good cross-section of the community, with representatives from most clubs serving on the committee. The Kiwanis Club carries a heavy load, selling popcorn, serving a chicken barbecue and producing a program which ran 48 pages this year. Other groups involved are the Rotary Club, the Lions Club, the Sons of Italy, the Marine Corps League, the Knights of Columbus, the Minutemen and the Chamber of Commerce.

The goal of the committee has always remained the same, said Joan Maga, to have a week-long festival of activities for families. It's a wonderful chance for people to get together with their friends, neighbors and relatives.

Joan has been involved with the celebration longer than the committee has existed. She was on the Bicentennial Committee in 1976. The celebration hasn't changed much in 20 years, except possibly with the inclusion of more events for kids.

This year, Family Day will be held on Saturday, June 30. Events will run all day, beginning with breakfast at 7 a.m. and winding up with fireworks at 9 p.m. This is in addition to the main fireworks event on Tuesday, July 3.

ConCom kicks off with Olin

Update on current activities at the Olin property: wetland restoration areas were backfilled; general grading took place over the site; there was closure of the soil treatment area at the rear of the property; there was construction of the alternative weir structure, a dam-like structure for water containment, at the south ditch, with loam placement on side slope areas; and restoration planting has begun.

An incident of contaminated water being pumped into the south ditch area was corrected; remedial measures included the containment and treatment of the contaminated water and the excavation of contaminated sediment.

CHESTNUT STREET. The application for a Request for Determination of Applicability (RDA), which is a request to determine wetland boundaries in relation to construction or other activities, for landscaping activities, a deck and construction of a pergola was approved.

The proposed 8-foot x 10-foot pergola is a structure similar to a trellis that consists of parallel colonnades that support an open roof of girders and cross rafters. It will be constructed next to a water garden. An 8-foot x 10-foot deck attachment to the house is also proposed.

The commission issued a negative determination, which will allow the applicants to begin construction.

COOMBS FURNITURE ON MIDDLESEX AVENUE. This application for an RDA is to demolish the warehouse portion of the former Coombs Furniture building. The old, original building will remain intact at this time. The commission previously approved wetland resource boundaries. Although the work will be within the riverfront area and buffer zone to the bordering vegetated wetlands, it would remain on the paved areas adjacent to the buildings.

The commission issued a negative determination, which will allow the demolition to take place.

RANDOLPH ROAD. The public hearing for the Notice of Intent, which is a notice of work within or close to a wetland resource area, was closed. The commission was satisfied that all issues at the location have been addressed.

I-93/ROUTE 125/BALLARD-VALE INTERCHANGE. A legal and an environmental consultant, representing Joyce Corey, the Trustee of Sunshine Investment, and representatives from the state met with the commission to discuss the proposed future plans for the interchange. (A wetland violation had occurred on the property in question.)

The state needs to take soil boring samples from the Corey property, among others, to determine the installation points for the ramp footings. The commission wants a plan and an assurance that the wetland dredging and other wetland alteration on the Corey property would be corrected prior to the start of the state's work.

After a lengthy discussion, the commission required a plan for the wetland restoration of the Corey property, with a definite work schedule including dates, times and the type of work to be submitted prior to the next meeting, if the state wishes to begin its work soon. The commission voted to continue the public hearing until its next meeting on July 11.

Hot weather tips for seniors

WILMINGTON - Heat stress can cause heat exhaustion, heat stroke, heart failure and stroke. The most common signs of heat exhaustion are mental confusion, headache, nausea, light headedness, muscle pain and cramping. Although all elders are vulnerable to heat stress, elders with heart, circulatory and kidney problems, obesity, diabetes, emphysema, respiratory illness and skin disease are at an even greater risk.

Six tips to prevent heat stress:
* Drink large amounts of water even when you are not particularly thirsty. While water is the best choice for refueling, any non-alcoholic, decaffeinated beverage such as juice and lemonade can prevent dehydration and heat stress.

*Keep cool by spending as much time as possible in air conditioned surroundings. If your home is not air conditioned, consider going to a shopping mall, library, movie theater or our Senior Center.

*Take a cool bath or shower because cold water removes extra body heat 25 times faster than cold air.
*Keep skin covered when exposed to direct sunlight. Use sunscreen for exposed skin on face, neck and ears and consider wearing a hat.

*Adjust activity schedules according to the temperature. For example, garden or exercise in the early morning or evening.

*Wear lightweight, light colored, loose fitting clothing such as cotton.

If you should need a fan, please feel free to call the Center at 978-657-7595. Also anyone who would like to donate a fan for our annual fan drive, feel free to drop it off at the Buzzell Senior Center, 15 School St.

WCTV's public access program raises $1225 for breast cancer awareness

WILMINGTON - On Thursday June 14, Rick Aronofsky host of the popular cable access program held a LIVE fund raising event with the hope of raising money for breast cancer awareness. Rick invited viewers to call in their pledges as he had his head shaved bald live on the air.

His guest was MS Augusta Gale, who is a two time cancer survivor. Augusta shared her thoughts and tips on what to expect when being diagnosed with breast cancer and her thoughts on staying focused with a positive attitude in order to be a cancer survivor.

During the last 20 minutes of the one-hour show Rick was able to raise over $800.00 toward his goal of $1000.00. His final tally for the benefit was $1225.00.

If you would like to add to the total, you can make your checks out to the American Cancer Society and mark the memo portion "breast cancer." Mail them to Rick Aronofsky P.O. Box 232 Wilmington, MA 01887.

Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Which came first, the Chicken or the Egg?

WILMINGTON - One of the fun activities that has been a traditional part of the annual summer reading program is the "Guessing Contest." In keeping with the statewide theme "First of All - Read!" Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald, with the help of library volunteers Ruth Russo and Igrina Alamo, has created a display of golden eggs. On each visit to the library, children are invited to guess the number of golden eggs in the display case. They can place the entry with the estimated number of eggs inside the "Chicken." The winner will be announced at the "Famous Firsts" Party, on Wednesday, August 15, the grand finale event of the summer reading program.

More children's programs

Children are invited to enter the Famous First Drawing Contest by designing a book cover of a "Famous First" (real, imaginary, personal or other). The contest rules sheet is available at the library. Deadline to enter is Monday, July 16.

Registration is underway to Create Your Own Comic Book Workshop scheduled for Thursday, July 12 at 7 p.m. Thanks to Fleet Bank of Wilmington for funding this program.

Staff Picks

Reference Librarian Terri Boudette has asked the library staff to recommend some favorite books for a list of "sizzling" summer reads. She has prepared a handout that is available at the library. Titles on the "Staff Picks" list include the following:

Canfield, Jack et al. Chicken Soup for the Cat & Dog Lover's Soul. A heartwarming collection of stories about people who treasure their pets as family, and the love and loyalty they receive in return.

Chazin, Suzanne. The Fourth Angel. In this debut novel, rookie fire marshal Georgia Skeehan tries to solve a series of deadly fires in New York. It is no easy task since she is a woman in a man's world, and her aunt uncovers things that men in high places want to keep buried.

Craig, Philip R. Vineyard Shadows. Craig's latest Vineyard mystery has Jackson's ex-wife inadvertently getting his family involved with the Boston mob. Jackson tries to help out his ex's husband who supposedly owes money to the mob, while he plays super dad at home. He tries to return peace to his summer haven. Perfect for a beach day read!

Grippando, James. A King's Ransom. Nick Rey's father is kidnapped by terrorists in Columbia. He needs the insurance to cover the ransom demand. But the company won't pay because fraud is suspected. Nick must try to rescue his father while the people he works with betray him.

Johansen, Iris. Final Target. A terrorist attack leaves the President's seven-year-old daughter catatonic. Dr. Jessica Riley brings Cassie to her home to treat her. Jessica and her sister Mellie risks their safety to save the little girl. The deceit and intrigue never end in this fast paced thriller.

ZAPPED BY LIGHTNING. On Thursday, June 21, crew members in Wilmington worked on boarding up the roof of a Clark Street home that went up in flames earlier that morning. The seeds of the blaze, which ignited a little before three on Thursday morning, were, unbeknownst to the residents and authorities, planted when lightning struck the house at nine o'clock on the night before. Cheryl Lecomte and her two sons, Richie and Brian, were among the eight residents left without a home in the wake of the blaze. StonehamBank has set up a fund to help Lecomte, a former Stoneham resident, get back on her feet. Donations by check can be sent to Bill DeNapoli at 80 Montvale Avenue in Stoneham, 02180. A SHARED MEAL

In many cultures, tradition calls for mourners to take a meal together after the funeral. In one region of Spain, a special bread is baked for the wake. In this country, the Amish bake "funeral pies" made with raisins. Among Jewish families, the first meal after a funeral is called "the meal of condolence," in which hard-boiled eggs and other round foods are served in recognition of life's continuity. Thus, it is that the universality of the death experience evokes an equally universal response. A communal meal after the funeral is symbolic of the need to replenish ourselves and carry on with the business of living. In the process, we bring comfort to one another.

At Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, we believe that each family has its own personality and special needs, and we are here to assist you with your needs. We are Tewksbury's first and oldest established funeral home, so you know you're in experienced hands when you come to us. Let us take care of the details so you can comfort each other and take care of more important matters. If you have any questions about us, please feel free to call us at 978-851-7411.

He attended Catholic schools in nearby Emmitsburg, Maryland, graduating from St. Joseph High School in 1953.

He entered the Oblate pre-novitiate program in Ipswich, Mass. and took his first vows in 1955. His final vows were pronounced in his home parish in Thurmont, in the presence of his brother, Fr. Leo Wetzel, OMI, who had preceded him into the Oblate congregation.

In these assignments, he was well known in the local post office and stores, picking up mail, running errands and otherwise providing services for the Oblates stationed in these residences. He was also talented at repairs and maintenance of these residences. He spent five years at Sacred Heart Parish in Lowell from 1972-77, as a custodian for the school and church, using his considerable skills in maintaining the buildings of the parish.

In 1987, he returned to Tewksbury to serve as driver for the retired priests, taking them to and from various doctor's offices and hospitals, as well as regularly handling the mail for the large number of Oblates in the community.

He is survived by his brother, Fr. Leo Wetzel, OMI, of the Oblate residence in Tewksbury; his sister, Ruth Etheridge of Tipton, PA and several nieces and nephews.

His funeral mass was celebrated Monday, June 25 at 10 a.m. in the Oblate Residence Chapel. Burial followed in the Oblate Cemetery. Donations in memory of Bro. Remembering Larz on his 90th birthday

by Larz F. Neilson

June 27 would have been Capt. Larz Neilson's 90th birthday.

Larz was almost a life-long resident of Wilmington. He was actually born in North Woburn, about a mile over the town line, and his parents moved to Silver Lake when he was one year old.

This birthday remembrance is not so much to give a biography, but rather to collect some interesting anecdotes.

At the time Larz started the Town Crier, he had a bushy moustache. He was also president of the Wilmington Rotary Club at the time. He had the moustache shaved, with great fanfare, in front of the Rotary Club. Local barber and fellow Rotarian Adrian Durkee did the honors.

Larz practiced a very personal sort of journalism. One trick which he learned from his mother was door-to-door calling. Caroline Neilson had been a correspondent for a Swedish-American newspaper, Svea. She would visit Swedish families in Woburn and Winchester, selling subscriptions and gathering news. And so it was with Larz. He would sit down and list everyone on a street, check off if they were a subscriber and if he had paid. Then he would go out and "clean up" the street. In the process, he would meet new residents. In many cases, he would run a small story in the paper telling about the newcomers.

This also contributed to Larz' knowledge of local history. He would call on the old-timers and listen to their stories. He always maintained that the Carter Lecture Committee would do well to present some locals instead of the travelogues that were so common. But that never happened, and the Town Crier was the only vehicle for the historical stories from Captain Hathaway, Harold Melzar and Eddie Sargent, among many others. Larz was most fond of mushrooms. He would go out after a rain-storm and gather a basketful. Unfortunately, his wife would not allow them in the kitchen, claiming that he would kill himself with a poison mushroom.

That never happened. If he could not positively identify a mushroom, Larz would not eat it. Usually he would take his bounty to a friend, and they would have a feast. Often people would bring mushrooms to the Town Crier office for Larz.

He also loved to go fishing, usually at Foster's Pond or at the Shawsheen River in Ballardvale, where rowboats were available for rent.

At Foster's Pond, there used to be room to park at the dam, which was at the bottom of a hill. At one point, he was driving an old Packard with a bum transmission. It had third and reverse. So he would drive down to the dam and go about halfway up the hill on the other side and park; to get a rolling start for the return trip. One time I was putting my tackle away and forgot the fishing rod on the front fender. We got in the car, and as we hit the bottom of the hill, I noticed the fishing rod. He just kept driving. "The hell with the rod," he yelled. We stopped at the top of the hill and put the fishing rod in the trunk.

In 1967, he bought a small camp on Foster's Pond in Andover. It was an incredible find. It was only five miles from the office, but was out in the middle of nowhere. To get there, you had to drive over to Route 28 and then follow a dirt road for nearly a mile. Larz summered there for about ten years. The camp had no electricity or phone. Everything ran on bottled gas, even the refrigerator. One time, Fred Cain came to visit.

Larz had a dummy telephone as a joke. He set off an alarm clock, shut off the clock, picked up the phone and handed it to Fred. "It's for you," he said.

(The following stories were contributed by Peter A. Neilson.)

The Spark-Stotting

There's a certain magic about winter, and the winter of 1947-1948 was especially magical. There was a lot of snow that year, and Larz had brought home yet another treasure, this time a kick sled from Norway.

(It's a habit among sailors to find space on the ship for some immense piece of furniture bought at a wonderfully low price, just the right present for the family.)

The kick sled, or sparkstotting (meaning "kick-pushing"), holds two people. The passenger sits on a seat, and the driver-kicker stands behind the seat on the steel runners, holding onto the handlebars at the top of the seat. The runners are very flexible, and allow some degree of steering by shifting one's weight, as the sled travels swiftly across ice or packed snow. There are no brakes!

The young Neilson boys found it positively delightful to sit in the seat while their father provided the kicking. In the late forties and early fifties the snow would often get far ahead of sanding and plowing, especially on High Street. A few cars would go by, packing the snow, but it was really quite safe to venture out on the kick sled, right down the middle of the street. After all, the sled could go about as fast on packed snow as one dared to drive a car. Larz would zip along High Street and down the hill onto what was then Woburn Street, past Raleigh Nelson's driveway, putting sparkstotting to the test. Returning up the hill, sparkstotting tested Larz.

Half Danish, half Swedish but Larz spoke French

One of Larz's troop-carrying missions during World War II took his ship to the North African port of Oran. The purpose was to support the Free French of Charles de Gaulle. His assignment as Captain: to sit in port doing nothing for four months, while he awaited further orders. To escape the mind-numbing boredom, Larz took advantage of a course in the French language that a Belgian officer was presenting in Oran. Monday, Wednesday and Friday there was a course for army officers. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday was open to enlisted men.

So on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Larz put on his captain's uniform, and attended French class. On Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday he put on his civvies, and attended more French class. As a result he attained a modest proficiency in spoken French, something he found of advantage during the remainder of the war, and indeed throughout the rest of his life.

For a time in the early 1950's Larz was the postmaster of the North Wilmington Post Office, a tiny building that stood in what is now the northern front corner of the parking lot for the new Elia's Country Store. One day, a man who did not speak English came into the post office. Larz tried French, and it worked. The gentleman was from Portugal, where French was part of the standard education, and he was looking for the home of his brother, Dr. Emmanuel de Barcellos.

Crossword puzzles, Larz' way

In the early 1950's there weren't any programs worth watching on TV on Sunday afternoon, so the Neilson household at 47 High St. sat on the front porch if the weather was nice. Elizabeth would read, and Larz would do the crossword puzzle in the Sunday New York Times. Regular crossword puzzles weren't good enough for Larz. Only the big Sunday Times puzzle challenged him. But even that wasn't tough enough, so he did it in ink. Verticals only. "Don't write in a word until you are sure of it," he said. "Don't write in the horizontals. Use them only for proving the verticals."

Larz never used a dictionary for solving puzzles, trusting his own mind rather than bowing to Mr. Webster. "Using a dictionary would be cheating," he always said. Some people believe that the unusual spellings found in the Town Crier to this day result directly from Larz's anti-dictionary principles.

Aronofskys battle breast cancer together

By STACEY E. STEVENS

WILMINGTON - Amidst all of the hype and attention that today's 'reality' shows are receiving, whether they deserve it or not, one need look no further than our own town of Wilmington to meet some real 'survivors'.

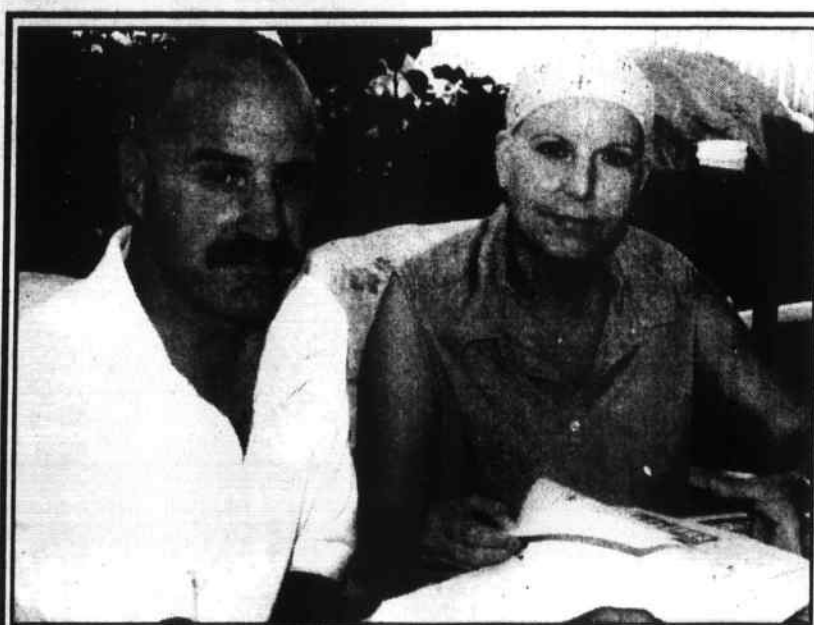

This is no 'game', however; it's a bona fide life-or-death battle, and not for the faint of heart. Unlike those notorious television shows, there is no voting one another off; the teammates in question stick together for the win. One person's victory means victory for the entire team. But are the rewards worth fighting for? The answer is an unqualified 'yes'.

Just ask Wilmington 'survivors' Heidi and Rick Aronofsky.

Heidi first met Rick six years ago when he coached the soccer league in which her daughter and one of his two sons were participants.

"It was the first year in which Wilmington had ever had a co-ed soccer league. I think that they were short of boys," quips Heidi. Exactly how many goals were scored by the team is unknown, but Rick and Heidi certainly scored points with each other and went on to form a winning team of their own. Six years later, they were to discover a much deeper and more significant meaning for the words 'team' and 'victory' when Heidi was diagnosed with breast cancer.

"I had actually undergone an oper-

UNITED FRONT. Wilmington resident Heidi Aronofsky, right, is not alone in her ongoing battle against breast cancer. ation for cervical cancer at New England Medical Center in Boston eleven years ago at the age of thirty-one," says Heidi. "Fortunately they were able to get it all. Two years ago, when some spots showed up on my mammograms, I was told that they were only calcifications, which are quite common, and that I shouldn't worry about them. I kept on going back every six months for assessments, during which time they eventually grew to two centimeters in width." Continues Heidi, "At one point, my employer offered its employees some new insurance choices. I took advantage of the fact that Lahey Clinic was right across the street from us. When I went in for a 'routine' mammogram, I was shocked to receive a telephone call from them the very next morning stating that they had made an appointment for me with the surgeon."

Adds Heidi, "Rick came to the appointment with me. We spent a good four hours meeting the team of physicians who would be involved in my care. They were really thorough. First I had a lumpectomy, but they weren't able to remove all of the cancer. I had further surgery in mid-March, followed by four chemotherapy treatments, one every three weeks, followed by six weeks worth of radiation treatment."

Heidi identified with many of the emotions with which cancer patients must contend.

"There's the initial shock and disbelief, followed by anger - 'why me?'," states Heidi. "There's the fear of the effects of the treatments, that they won't get all of the cancer or that it will resurface. And, of course, there is the fear of death. Then there's the constant worry about what the insurance will and won't cover, the effect of loss of employment on one's finances and self-esteem, the sense of isolation and stigma that accompanies the loss of one's social activities, not to mention the loss of one's hair due to radiation therapy, and the partial - or in many cases, entire - removal of breast tissue."

Such trauma would be difficult to face on one's own. Heidi, however, has had Rick at her side every step of the way.

Says Heidi, "Rick has been wonderfully supportive throughout this entire ordeal. Even before all of this happened, he has always shared in doing the household chores and so on. Since then he has been my number-one source of moral support, the one who keeps me going."

Rick did much more than simply provide moral support, however; he put his money where his mouth - that is, head - is.

"Through Heidi's cancer, we learned how much we didn't know," observes Rick. "I figured that the best thing I could do for her was to help increase public awareness of the disease and its implications through a fundraising effort, whereby I set a goal of raising a thousand dollars for cancer research."

Starting out with an initial sum of $50, Rick spread the word through neighbors, friends, and colleagues, asking people to match or double his contribution with their own. It was during this time, says Rick, that the true spirit of the town of Wilmington was revealed to Heidi and him. Word got around quickly, and before long Rick had come up with $220.

Then Rick went into step two of his fundraising plan.

"I host an hour-long live show called 'Red Sox Weekly' on Wilmington Cable Television (WCTV) on Thursday evenings," he explains. "I invited my barber, Joe Ryan, to shave my head on-the-air during the last half-hour of the June 14th show as a visible means of support for Heidi and others who had lost their hair due to cancer treatments."

Continues Rick, "We went on the air at 8 p.m. and interviewed American Cancer Society spokesperson Augusta Gale, who shared her own remarkable inspirational breast cancer survival story. After 8:30 p.m. the telephone calls started coming, and they just didn't stop! At 8:45, we had reached the $445 mark. By 9:00 p.m., we had $1,220. We ran the show for another ten minutes beyond what we normally do, and by 9:10 p.m., we had raised $1,330!"

Adds Rick, "Unfortunately, we had only one telephone line available to us at the time. Several donors informed us afterward that the line was so busy that they hadn't been able to get through. Viewers who missed the show are encouraged to tune in to WCTV in order to catch the reruns. We are grateful to each and every person who contributed."

Others in the community have since gotten into the act too, such as the recent 'Chaotic Wrestling' fundraiser at Wilmington High School, in which 15% of the proceeds was donated to the American Cancer Society.

Citing prevention and early detection as the keys to survival, Heidi urges all women to be more proactive in their own health care.

Advises Heidi, "Have regular

Under 12 Boys compete for Cup

Once again this spring Bill Kent's soccer forces found themselves in post season play. This time, Wilmington's U12 Boys team was competing in the prestigious Commissioner's Cup.

But they would do it without the services of defensive stalwart, Shane Foley. On a sweltering hot Saturday, the Wildcats took on a squad from Winchester - a team they had handled easily during the two regular season contests.

But in a tournament like this, each team starts with a clean slate and anything can, and does, happen. So it would not have shocked the soccer cognoscenti that early in the contest a freak bounce over the head of a Wilmington defenseman led to a Winchester goal and an early deficit for the home town team.

Back came the Wildcats with Chris Azevedo stinging a shot that the Winchester goalie barely managed to block. Maintaining control, the ball was fed to Derek Hanson who launched another shot that sailed just over the net.

A few moments later a free kick gave Winchester the opportunity to double its lead. But the ever reliable Pat Ryan crushed the hopes of the Winchester faithful with a leaping save that kept the score unchanged.

Back on the offensive end, Wilmington resumed its attack. Brendan DeMango followed up his own corner kick with a long range alser that struck the crossbar. Next, Richie Barry streaked up the right side and drilled a shot on net.

But the aggressive Winchester goalie stormed well out of his box and made a diving save, deflecting the ball just wide. As the half wound down, Justin Patrie twice sent long lead passes to C.J. Jeannette who descended quickly upon the goal; but each time the Winchester goalie managed to reach the ball first. Despite dominating the action with a dozen shots on net, the Wildcats trailed 1-0 at the half.

Knowing a loss could well end their hopes for a title, the Wildcats stormed out of the gate in the second half, prosecuting a relentless assault on the Winchester goal. Greg Stewart booted a long, high shot that appeared certain to find the mark, but a tremendous leaping save by the Winchester net minder kept Wilmington off the board.

Like storm waves beating upon a sea wall, the Wildcats continued their barrage but the Winchester defense held firm. Brendan Sheehan, whose hand injury prevented him from sharing the goalkeeper duties, displayed his versatility by constantly derailing incursions across midfield.

Finally with less than five minutes left, Patrie fed Tim Kent for a blast that evaded the reach of the goalie and tied the game at one apiece. That would be the final score of this frustrating game that saw more than two dozen Wildcat shots including three off the post, fail to register a score. Still, the team preceded to the next match with a point in hand.

Wilmington's next opponent was an exceptionally strong team from Woburn. In assistant Coach Azevedo's view, this contest would likely determine the champion. He would prove to be prescient in his analysis. Setting the tone early, Brendan DeMango teed up a surface to air missile from 30 yards away. The goalie leapt to deflect it and somehow managed to catch the ball as it came down before breaking the plane of the goal.

Undeterred, a few moments later Tim Kent set up DeMango for a second volley. This one sped by the goalie putting Wilmington ahead 1-0. The lead was shot lived, however, as Woburn capitalized on a fine breakaway a few minutes later to tie the score at one.

Then at the 15 minute mark, the already depleted Wildcat contingent suffered another blow when Tim Kent had to be carried off the field with a leg injury. Things then went from bad to worse as a throw in deep in Wilmington's zone resulted in a shot that soared above the outstretched arms of a leaping Wilmington goalie to put Woburn up 2-1 as the first half ended.

The second half unfolded as a highly physical struggle dominated by defense. Just how physical was apparent when a charging Derek Hanson's pursuit of the ball was interrupted by the intercession of a 6'2" Woburn defender. Hanson got the pass off to Walsh an instant before an impact that sent the two itrepid opponents crashing violently to the ground.

The game continued with each side battling fiercely to protect its territory. Time and again sweeper Eric Legro repelled further Woburn encroachments to keep his teammates within striking distance. The "Zach-pack" duo of Ciampa and Church combined with the tenacious tandem of Matt Brooks and Danny Patterson to provide an impenetrable barrier which shut down the Woburn offense for the rest of the day. Unfortunately, time ran out before the Wildcat offense could strike again, leaving them on the short end of a 2-1 score.

So the team entered its final match against Concord with this monumental task - to have any shot at the Cup it must win the game and do so by at least a three goal margin. Such a score would be quite an achievement under any circumstances.

But here, in tournament play against the best in the League, at the end of a long, hot weekend, surely this was asking too much. But a lesser goal would have been unworthy of this team that had achieved so much over the past several seasons. They therefore took the field for the final time this year with a resolve as strong as the steel goal posts stationed at each end of the field.

There were 50 minutes left to see exactly what these young men were made of. Six minutes into this final battle some excellent passing between Patrie, Jeannette and Steenbruggen set up a Tim Kent rocket that put Wilmington ahead 1-0. But Concord responded immediately with its own well executed breakaway that knotted the score at 1.

Back came Wilmington as Chris Azevedo connected with Richie Barry galloping up the right side. Barry blew past the defense and pounded another goal to recapture the lead. The half ended with Wilmington ahead, but not by the necessary margin.

As the second half began Dana Steenbruggen muscled his way through the defense and fired off a shot that, while failing to score, sent a loud message that there would be no truce declared until the final whistle.

Pat Ryan, meanwhile, was protecting his goal like a mother hen guarding her nest, turning back nearly a dozen Concord attempts. Midway through the period after a typically accurate Stewart corner kick, Concord was called for a handball in the goalie box resulting in a penalty kick. With surgical like precision, Richie Barry calmly stepped up and geared a shot past the over-matched goalie. They were now up two goals, but time was winding down.

Finally in the waning moments, Mark Walsh powered his way through a throng of defenders and drilled home the final goal of the game, providing the Wildcats with the sought after margin of victory.

Despite its grand finale, the outcome of the other matches determined that, on this weekend, Wilmington would be the runner up to Woburn for the Championship. No matter, for in their final contest they met the challenge, performing with skill, determination and character that identifies any championship caliber team.

THE TOWNSEND WELDING BREWERS completed an outstanding 12-2-1 season this past week, clinching the Wilmington Major League Softball Championship. The Brewers achieved their success through outstanding teamwork. They were led by 12-year-olds Christina Iaquinto, Kimberly James, and Katelyn McGrath.

The team also featured outstanding play of 11-year-old Colleen Carroll, Brittany Danehy, Colleen Magee, Dana Nolan, Kim Stockton and Lauren Westerberg. The 10-year-old rookies on the team were Kristen Browne, Lindsay Garrard, Nicole Iosue, Lauren Nasiff, Shelbi Rygiel and Ashley Taylor.

The team was coached by Bob Danehy and Scott Nolan with special assistants Lani Cabral-Pini (pitching) and Heather Danehy (hitting).

 checkups, including mammograms. There is all kinds of literature available on how to do a monthly self-breast examination. Don't automatically take everything that a physician says to you as gospel. Don't be afraid to ask for further explanations and second and even third opinions. Insist on having those 'normal calcifications' biopsied. Become well-informed. Hiding from cancer won't make it go away; it only gives it the opportunity to spread further. Develop a good support system, and above all, don't give up!"

For Heidi, her battle against cancer has actually enriched her life with an unexpected education. "If there's one positive thing that came out of all of this, it's the perspective we gained on what's really important in life," says Heidi. "Before this, I would often let minor irritations get to me. Now, I don't want to waste my thought, life and energy on them."

In addition to the support of Rick, the American Cancer Society has been equally helpful to Heidi. According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer ranks second among the leading causes of death in women nationwide. According to their most recent data, an estimated 40,600 deaths (40,200 women, 400 men) resulted from breast cancer in 2001. Mortality rates declined significantly during 1990-1997. These decreases are being largely attributed to earlier detection and improved treatment.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women age 40 and older have an annual mammogram, an annual clinical breast examination by a health care professional (close to and preferably before the scheduled mammogram), and perform monthly breast self-examination. Women ages 20 to 39 should have a clinical breast examination by a health care professional every three years and should perform monthly breast self-examination. To find out how you can help in the fight against breast cancer, call 1-800-ACS-2345 twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. Or visit the American Cancer Society website at <http://www.cancer.org>. Donations may also be sent in the care of Rick Aronofsky at P.O. Box 232, Wilmington, MA 01887.

"I am especially grateful for the American Cancer Society's programs, such as 'Reach for Recovery', in which cancer survivors provide counsel and support newly-diagnosed patients," says Heidi. "There's their 'Look Good, Feel Better' program, in which a box of cosmetics and a lesson in how to apply them are provided free of charge. Then there are their 'Weekends of Hope', sponsored in various locations throughout the United States. Rick and I attended one in Stowe, Vermont, which included various informational seminars by oncologists, a plethora of literature, a candlelight vigil, and plenty of fellowship."

With a rock-solid support system that includes Rick, their daughter, who goes to the mall with her to choose stylish hats, and the American Cancer Society, Heidi is empowered with the spirit necessary to confront and, God willing, defeat cancer.

"Believe me when I say that there is still life, good life, after cancer," says Heidi. "Although I do feel cheated in that I wasn't diagnosed much sooner, I also feel thankful that after the initial post-operative recovery period, during which I was very sick, I lost neither my appetite nor the ability to keep working. I have lost weight, although probably more due to stress than anything else."

Concludes Heidi, "I will keep on truckin' no matter what."

WILMINGTON UNDER 12 GIRLS SOCCER TEAM: Second row: Jill Manganelli, Katie Arsenault, Asst. Stray Cats take Championship with perfect 8-0 record

Wilmington's Under 12 Girls B travel soccer team completed a dream season by earning the Middlesex Youth Soccer League's Division 3 Championship and Commissioner's Cup Tournament trophies last week. The team, affectionately known as the "Stray Cat," qualified for the playoffs by registering an impressive 8-0-0 spring season in the MYSL's Division 3B bracket.

The Stray Cats are made up of keeper Addie Saloman, sweeper Erika Belsky, stopper Kerri Stinson, fullbacks Meaghan Doherty, Kaley Maguire and Samantha Little; midfielders Courtney Parsons, Ashley Troy, Tara McNabb, Stephanie Seidman and Emily Clapp; forwards Cassie Doherty, Krysen Augello, Jill Manganelli, Gabriella Mirabella, Ally Evans, and Deirdre Carroll and the versatile Katie Arsenault, who played stopper, midfield and forward throughout the course of the season. The team's head coach is Steve Parsons, assisted by Jim Belsky.

Wilmington's 8-0-0 regular season record included twin 3-0 wins over a very talented Hanscom AFB-1 team, 5-2 and 4-1 decisions over Lincoln's 2 team, 2-0 wins over Malden's 1 team and North Reading-3; a 4-2 victory over Wakefield's 3 team and a 7-0 whitewash of Melrose-3. Each victory resulted from a potent combination of strong defense, heady midfield play and aggressive offense by the Stray Cats.

The perfect season earned the girls the chance to play for the MYSL U-12 Girls Division 3 and Commissioner Cup Tournament titles.

The top team in Division 3A was the Medford United-1 team, which owned an equally impressive 8-0-0 record. Medford United-2 (7-0-1) and Lowell-2 (7-0-1) also qualified for the MYSL Division 3 Commissioner's Cup Tournament, which matched up the top four Division 3 teams from an original field of 18.

Medford United-1 entered the Saturday June 16, 9 a.m. Division 3 title match against the Stray Cats not only undefeated, but unscored upon, too. Wilmington truly had its work cut out, since a tie in this tilt would result in Medford capturing the title by virtue of their zero goals against regular season record.

The Stray Cats came out smoking, applying early pressure on Medford's defense, which resulted in a foul by Medford just outside the box at the top right about five minutes into the contest. In a play that had been practiced time and time again by Wilmington, Courtney Parsons calmly tapped the indirect kick and Ashley Troy drilled a cannon shot into the top center of the Medford net. This score off the set piece visibly shook the previously unscored upon opponents and allowed Wilmington to capture the momentum, weather Medford's counters and go into half time leading 1-0.

Medford came out hard in the second half and the Stray Cats' Steel Curtain defense was put to the test several times with the sweeper, stopper and fullbacks coming up big to thwart all offensive thrusts. Keeper Saloman came up huge midway through the second half, coming out 20 yards beyond the box to drive the ball deep into Medford's defensive zone, halting a two on one scoring threat by Medford.

Wilmington's midfielders succeeded in pushing the ball past the halfway mark several times, allowing the Stray Cat strikers to counter several Medford offensive scoring threats with good opportunities of their own. Unfortunately, Medford's defense came up as big as Wilmington's time and time again.

The nail biter of a second half continued until, with about two minutes left in the game and Medford continuing to pinch up, the Stray Cats pounced on a golden opportunity. A run down the right hand side produced a two on one break and Courtney Parsons made a beautiful cross to a wide open Ally Evans, who calmly planted the ball into a wide open net, giving Wilmington an insurmountable 2-0 lead.

Tears of joy flowed among the Stray Cats and their families as Wilmington held on for a satisfying 2-0 win over the previously undefeated and unscored upon Medford United-1 squad. Directly after the victory, the girls were presented handsome trophies, indicative of capturing the MYSL Division 3 Championship. All of the hard work at practices and during regular season games paid dividends, as the Stray Cats happily savored their victory. But, there was more work to be done; and Wilmington still had one more mountain to climb.

The Stray Cats next challenge came in the form of the Lowell-2 team, in a 1 p.m. game on a sweltering Saturday afternoon. Both teams appeared to be a bit flat, given the weather and the fact that both had played - and won, a morning game against a Medford team, Lowell having defeated Medford United-2, 2-0.

Lowell had the best of the early scoring chances, only to be set aside by a tough Wilmington back line. Luck was on the Stray cats side, too, as Lowell's strikers put two point blank shots over Wilmington's net. Finally, on a scramble in front of the Lowell net, Deirdre Carroll found herself alone in front and chipped the ball into the net, giving Wilmington a 1-0 lead after one half of play.

The second half found Lowell continuing to press in the Wilmington defensive zone, but the Stray Cats defense stiffened and Lowell was turned back repeatedly. Wilmington had several scoring opportunities of their own, only to be thwarted by a very talented Lowell keeper. The Stray Cats and their fans were counting down the time and all breathed a sign of relief as the game ended with Wilmington holding on for a scintillating 1-0 victory.

Sunday's scheduled match with Medford United-2 was postponed, due to the torrential downpours of the remnants of tropical storm Allison, and the game was rescheduled to Wednesday night. Once again Wilmington was faced with a quality opponent, and once again the Stray Cats took the initiative. Striker Cassie Doherty made a nice run down the right side, cut in and placed a perfect shot that just eluded the outstretched hand of the Medford goalie, making it Stray Cats 1; Medford 0.

Within a minute of the Wilmington strike Medford came right back and scored what would prove to be the only goal the Stray Cats gave up throughout the entire Commissioner's Cup Tournament, knotting the score at 1-1. The rest of the first half and the entire second half found both teams trading offensive threats and defensive stands, but with neither team being able to capitalize, the final score was a well earned 1-1 tie.

Directly after this third contest each of the Stray Cats were awarded prestigious Commissioner's Cup Tournament Championship trophies, indicative of the best Under-12 Girls Division 3 Soccer team in the Middlesex Youth Soccer League. This trophy and the overall Division 3 Championship trophy were the goals of all 18 teams at the start of the Spring 2001 travel soccer campaign. Through an entire season of good sportsmanship, determination, hard work, commitment, and talent the Stray Cats took on all comers and walked away being able to proudly say: "We're number one!"

Braves win third straight

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Thursday night the Braves of the Wilmington Senior League won their third straight playoff championship with a 7-6, 9 inning game over the Cardinals.

It was the second straight year the Braves beat the Cardinals in the final playoff game, both by one run.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead after the first inning as lead-off batter John Cuoco reached on a base hit and scored two batters later on a defensive error.

The Braves padded its lead in the second with three more runs. Kevin Velardo reached on an error and Joe Costello got hit by a pitch. Brendan Strem walked to load the bases and Brad MacIsaac singled to right driving in two and Strem later scored on a passed ball for the 4-0 lead.

In the bottom of the third, the Cardinals got back into the game with three runs. Joe Moffatt singled and after a Matt David walk, Moffatt scored on a groundout. Matt Brander walked to keep the inning going and he and David scored on a two-run single by lead-off batter Paul Sferazza.

Ryan Tildsley reached on an error and scored for the Braves to make it 5-3 after the fourth inning. The Cardinals weren't down as they scored a single run in the fifth as Jared Nimbs crossed the plate making it 5-4. The Cardinals held off the Braves and they tied the game up at 5-5 with a single run in the seventh as Sferazza scored on a RBI hit by Greg Buck forcing the game into extra innings.

Both teams couldn't score until the ninth inning. With two outs and the bases empty, Dan O'Connell got things rolling for the Cardinals with a single to center. He later scored on a RBI hit by Joe Downs to take the 6-5 lead.

But in the home half of the ninth, the Braves scored two runs on two walks and two errors with Chris Kitteridge coming home with the game winning run off the bat of Mark Pickett.

Dave Velardo, Greg Irving, Chad Orsburn, Mark Hadder and Derek Montalto put forth strong efforts for the Braves, as did Joe Cavanaugh, Bryant Buck, John Danciewicz, Mike Bell, Mike Welch and Joe Caira for the Cardinals.

14-year-olds edge 13-year olds in one-run game

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Sunday afternoon, despite holding off the off and on rain, Wilmington Little League held its All-Star game with its 13 and 14-year old leagues. The 13-year-old all-stars took on the 14-year-old all-stars and the older players won in the bottom of the sixth, prevailing by a score of 10-9.

The 13-year-olds took a commanding 8-2 lead through three innings including scoring seven runs in the third. Down 2-1 going to the third, the 13's sent 12 batters to the plate and scored seven times thanks to RBI hits from Ryan Olivieri, Sean Murphy, Josh Cunha and Matt Hogg. Jeff Youngclaus, Andy Otovic, David Rizzo and Mike Frisscube drew walks in the big

The 14's added a run in the third making it 8-3 as Lou Insalaco scored on a RBI hit by Rob Riccio. In the fourth, the 14's had their big inning sending nine batters to the plate with three of them scoring cutting the deficit to 8-6. Bob Sinopoli and Rob Gillis had the big hits, while Joe Mayo, Tim Anderson, Kyle Browne and Kevin Cole drew big walks to keep the rally going.

The 14's were able to catch Keith Brandano out a home in the fourth and they were also able to get out of a bases loaded jam which helped give them momentum. In the fifth inning, the 14's added three runs to take a 9-8 lead. Zack Wilkins, Riccio and Sinopoli had the hits in the inning, while, Dan Reed also reached base with one out to keep the inning alive.

In the top of the sixth, the 13 tied the game at 9-9 as Hogg scored the tying run. Matt Marden, Pete Rastellini and Brandano kept the inning going with either a hit or walk.

With the dark clouds hovering over the field, the 14's were able to pull out the victory with a single run in the bottom of the sixth. Bryan Buck walked to lead off the inning and he scored three batters later when Kevin Velardo walked with the bases loaded.

Ray Bennett of the 14-year-old team played well on both sides with the bat and the glove. Tom Miele, Alex Montalto and Joe DiMare also put forth strong efforts in the losing efforts.

Devil Rays win, 8-4

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Wednesday night, the Junior League Playoff Championship game between the fourth place Braves and the second place Devil Rays was held at WHS. The Devil Rays came home with the 8-4 victory.

The Devil Rays scored seven combined runs in the second and third innings and that would be all they needed to win as pitcher Jeff Youngclaus shut the Braves down as all four runs off him were unearned.

In Devil Rays second inning, Mike Frissore, Brian Caira, Ryan

Trulli and Mike Earls all scored to help the Braves take a 4-0 lead.

In the third, the Braves cut the deficit to 3-2 as Evan Walsh and Jim Good scored, while, Nick Manet added a single.

In the home half of the third the Rays put the game away with three runs on three walks and a hit by Scott Dunnett. He along with Tim Brady and PJ Russo scored the runs as the Rays led 7-2.

The Braves once again showed character by scoring two runs in the fourth as Keith Brandano and Josh Cunha scored thanks to a error, a hit by Peter Rastellini and a sacrifice from Dan Farrell.

With the score 7-4 in favor of the Devil Rays they added a single run in the fourth to end the scoring for the night. Dan Tobin reached on an error and later scored as Jason Buckley and Ryan Trulli walked and Keith Irwin reached on an error.

Dave Rizzo and Sam Oglesby helped out in the winning with strong defense.

Mike Hackett pitched well for the Braves as several errors hurt them leading to unearned runs.

Andrew Otovic, Shane Pellerin, Jim Murray, Mike Kavanaugh, Matt Olson, Jon Ryan and Dan Kline certainly were fixtures in the Braves successful season.

WILMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL COACH BOB ALMEIDA looks on as one of the instructors of the New England Football Camp held all this week at WHS. (Photo by Joe Hakey).

Almeida, Costabile help in on the fun New England football camp scores in Wilmington

By SANDRA FLETCHER
Sports Correspondent

For all football fans, it has arrived. The New England Football Camp began its inaugural week here in Wilmington starting this past Monday and ending on Friday.

This camp has grown to be one of the largest youth football camps throughout the region. After seven years of traveling to different communities such as Belmont and Lexington, it's finally here in Wilmington. The excitement is immeasurable.

John Papas, who has a great history as a football instructor, started the camp. He began his career in Belmont High School and ended up as the assistant coach at Tufts University. He coached four men into the NFL and won the Ivy League Championship as head coach at Harvard along the way.

Also instructing with Papas is Wilmington head coach Bob Almeida and his assistants Mike Barry, Bob Gillis and Rich DeLucia.

Al Costabile, Shawsheen Tech's coach, also is on hand helping the young kids.

"We've got a lot of experience in our coaching teams here and it's great because we all like to teach in a relaxed and fun atmosphere," said Papas of his staff.

Wilmington football players also gave up a week of their summer vacation to lend a hand with the kids. Almeida likes teaching the camp due to the fact that all of these coaches have been together for so long.

"We've gotten to be good friends and work well together because when it comes down to it, we want the kids to be safe and have fun."

Along with the coaching staff many visitors will come and speak to the kids. Mike Foley from Colgate College, Mark Harriman from Bates College and Bill Sanco from Tufts University will make appearances to help the kids learn about higher levels of playing.

The camp begins at 9 a.m. The kids trot out onto the field and get into their perspective groups.

"The kids' enthusiasm is great and they all seem to be having a good time, which is most important," said Papas. "This camp is about teaching the fundamentals; blocking, punting, plays, etc. All the kids are told from the very beginning how camp is going to run, and they are guaranteed three things; we teach football just as well as anyone else and do the exact drills that the pros do, you'll be exhausted by the end of the day, and you'll definitely have a good time."

The camp is divided into three groups - NCAA group, the NFC group and the AFC group - depending on ages ranging from eight to 15. The camp starts out with warm-ups and stretching. Then it's on to drills and instructions. The boys learn proper ways of blocking, catching and their motions on the field. Since football is a contact sport the boys are required to wear pads, helmets, and cleats. But the collision is at a minimum, with no tackling.

"We want to teach kids the right techniques so that no one gets hurt and everyone can be a part of the action," said Papas.

"Everyone is encouraged to participate in the camp, whether or not they plan on going out for their high school team. We've got kids from Medford, Tyngsboro, Tewksbury, Wayland and Wilmington. We want to give the kids some confidence and sharpen their skills," said Almeida. "We've got high expectations for the camp working well here in Wilmington and so far it's been great."

After a short lunch break and some cooling down the boys go back to their conditioning. They will start with more instructed drills and lastly have a scrimmage with the others in their division. This goes on until the last day of camp. The last day is reserved for final questions, games, and contests. This is a way of celebrating the boys surviving their week at camp. Double elimination playoff games is held and the remaining team is the camp.

This camp is set apart from many of the other camps due to its coaching staff and ethics. With all of the experience, pride in the game and passion for teaching, these coaches excel in getting the right message across.

"With such great facilities, it's about time we came here to Wilmington," said Papas. "Teaching the kids is great, they really seem to enjoy themselves and that's what we're here for."

Howlett and French enjoy Shriners' football game

By KYLE MELINN
Sports Correspondent

Bob French and Josh Howlett held their heads up high Friday night after the Shriners' All-Star football game. The two Wilmington athletic standouts and their North Mass. teammates were on the short end of a 41-13 game, but that was the only negative they could pick out from a week in which the two clashed helmets with some of the best prep football talent in the state.

"I had a great time," said Howlett, the Wildcats' senior 6-4, 250 pound end this past season. "It was fun to be here. It's not fun to lose, but it doesn't kill us."

Howlett and French both saw spot duty in the charity All-Star game, widely recognized as the top prep football game in the Bay State. Howlett caught two passes for nine yards and ran the ball once for a four yard gain. French, one of the North team's four captains, started the game at tailback and proved instrumental in the team's late touchdown drive when he galloped for a 16 yard gain. He finished the night with five rushes for 24 yards.

"Early on, the holes weren't so big and that made running the football tough," said French, whose first two carries were for one and negative two yards. "Later, they seemed to be a little bigger and we were able to score."

The South grabbed a 7-0 lead with six seconds left in the first quarter when North Attleboro quarterback Pat McGowan's pass was tipped by his intended receiver and caught in the back of the end zone by South running back Alfred Fincher of Norwood. The North didn't have time to respond. A one-handed interception by eventual South defensive MVP Lofa Tatupu of King Phillip gave the ball back to the South seconds later.

On the next play from scrimmage, Algonquin's Marc Eddy hit receiver Kris Lake for a 25-yard touchdown to make the score 14-0. The tidal wave of scoring had just begun. A North fumble gave the South another chance to score. A minute after the Eddy-to-Lake touchdown pass, Fincher broke loose on a 33 yard touchdown run to give the South a 20-0 lead 2:50 into the second quarter. By the end of the first half, the North had given up four turnovers and were down 34-7.

"Everything went their way," said Northeastern bound French. "We tried everything, but there was nothing we could do. They scored a lot on our turnovers. We knew coming in that they had a lot of talent and that we were the supposed 'underdogs.' We tried our hardest, but they came out wanting to win (the Shriners' game)."

Wilmington football fans can take solace in this fact: Up to Friday's game, only one Wilmington High player had participated in the statewide game since 1995. In fact, it's rare for the Cape Ann League (let alone one team) to have more than one player represented in a football game commonly referred to as featuring the 'best of the best' graduating Massachusetts seniors.

The honor of having two players named to the team speaks well for Wilmington's 10-1 season and its co-Cape Ann championship. Howlett said he enjoyed meeting some of the fellow North players, who he had heard of before, but had never formally met. In fact, he said he helped start a trend by giving fellow North teammates the Wilmington High logo to slap on their helmets.

By the end of the week, nearly every North player had multiple logos on his helmet. Howlett, for his part, had stickers from Woburn, Watertown, Chelmsford and Milford among others slapped across his helmet.

"We're out here to have fun and play for the Shriners," says Howlett, who will play at Assumption College in the fall. "The game is for a good cause and it's great to come out here and meet the kids from around the area who you should know, but you don't."

Howlett and French will play their last football as high school athletes at the Agganis Bowl in which the best from the Cape Ann League and Greater Boston League All-Stars will play the Catholic School All-Stars.

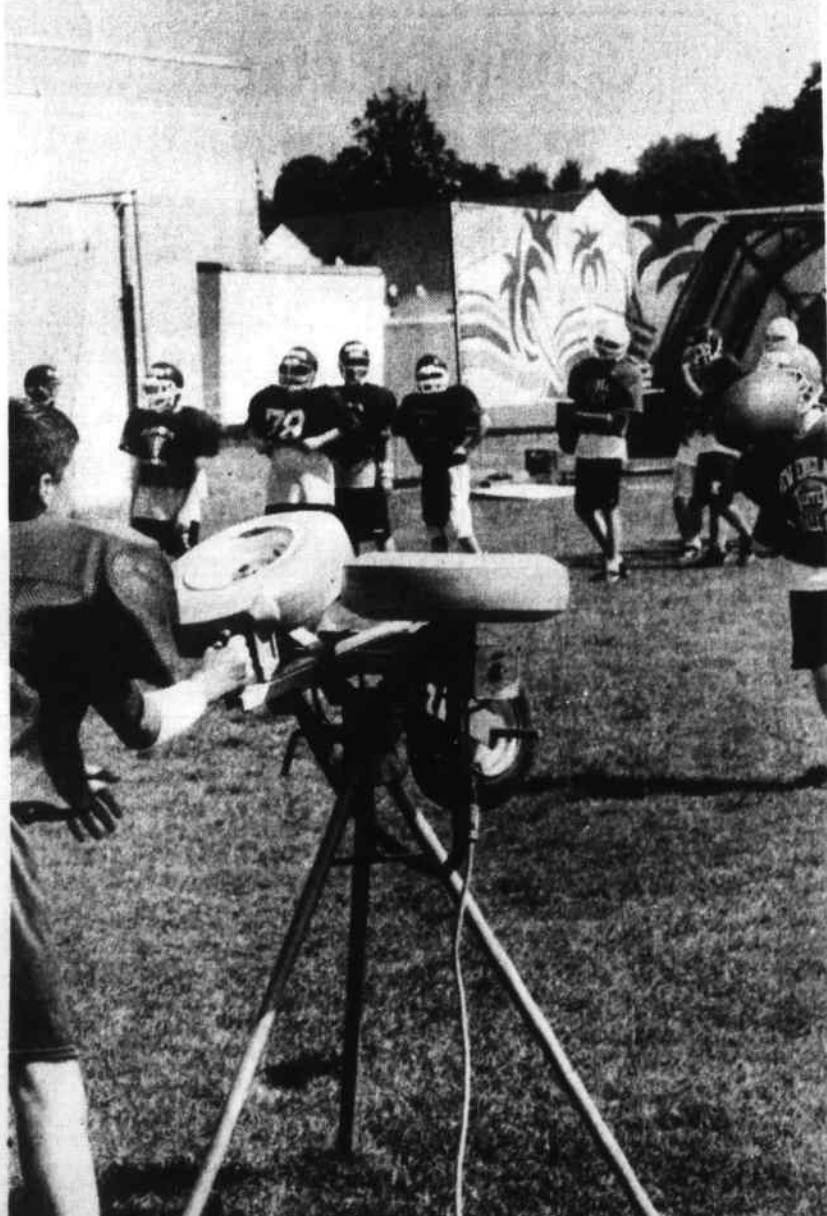

ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT THE JR. LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP PLAYOFF GAME was held at WHS between the Devil Rays and Cardinals. Pictured above, Braves runner Peter Rastellini gets back to first on an attempted pick-off play, while, below, Braves third baseman Dan Farrell leaps to catch the ball to save it from going into the outfield. Dick Scanlon Memorial Field?

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Two weeks ago this writer wrote a story saying that the town of Wilmington should step up to the plate and name the Wilmington High Baseball Field after the legendary baseball coach Dick Scanlon passed away. On Monday night, Selectmen Bob Palmer, who gave credit to the Town Crier, made a motion which was passed unanimously for the idea of naming the field after Scanlon. With the approval of the selectmen, the amendment of the field naming must now be approved at the next Town Meeting. Palmer also invited the town's School Committee - which Scanlon once served on - to go in on the motion.

MORE AND MORE SCHOOLS are implementing aggressive policies against youth smoking. If caught puffing in Wakefield Schools, you can expect a fine of $100 for the first offense, $150 for the second, and $200 for every offense thereafter.

Despite education and fines, Smoking kids are on the rise

By MIA CARTER

In the time it takes the average person to read this story, at least ten Americans will die of a smoking-related disease - that's more than from alcohol, crack, heroin, murder, suicide, car accidents, and AIDS combined.

Across the State and throughout the country, an all-out war has been declared on tobacco advertising, glamorization and the like. And the focus has also shifted to prevention and cessation programs aimed at the younger portion of the population.

"I started smoking when I was 13," admits Benny, now 17. "I'm still not sure why I started... Maybe it was peer pressure on a more subconscious level? I wasn't blatantly trying to 'fit in' but I think when you're surrounded by something, you eventually give in to it and I was more naive at the time. I think the earlier you can educate kids about this sort of thing, the better."

Programs to educate minors on the dangers of smoking and how to quit have expanded drastically within the past few years.

CASPAR is one such program which serves the City of Woburn.

The goal, as stated, is "To decrease the rate of current tobacco use and prevent the initial onset of use by enhancing resiliency factors among youth in the community."

I had to take Kathy home early from a party last night, she was so tired she could hardly keep her mouth open.

I heard that, Whistler's Mother was FRAMED.

Joe D'Ambrosio who has been known to smile at least ONCE a WEEK, told me, "a HEAD-Cold is both, Negative and Affirmative, sometimes and NOSE has it and, sometimes the EYES."

My Aunt Nora bought herself a present, it's an oversize pair of, EAR-Muffs. She uses them when I type and then read aloud my next week's Woodchips Column. She bought a pair for my dog Spike too.

Folks, Woodchips is translated into Chinese and appears in a San Francisco newspaper. Harry Wong wrote to me saying, "I don't understand your column, it's all GREEK to me!"

I asked Dennis Tully, "what did you give your little brother Kenny?" Dennis smiled and said, "MEASIES!"

I was invited to speak at a Bank Mangers and employee convention dinner held at the Boston Naval Shipyard Officer's Club. I figured it would be an ideal time to ask for a loan to repair this old house of mine.

My speech was well received, then many went outside on the pier. Bank Manager John Addonizio accidentally fell into the water and while someone ran for a life preserver I shouted, "Hey John, can you FLOAT A-LOAN?"

Kathy just had a facial and new hairdo. I said to her, "Wow, you look like the cat's MEOW!" She came right back with, "and you Chipper, look like what the cat dragged in."

The Martins Pond Association is a North Reading town-chartered charity whose mission is to improve Clarke Park and educate the public about the value of Martins Pond.

The annual Children's Fishing Derby starts the day from 8:00 am to 11:00 am for kids 12 and under. There will be trophies and prizes. It is free to enter, but participants must sign up with the Wildside Bass Club at the park by 9:30 pm. Shore fishing only.

At 11:00 am the Summer Festival gears up with the rest of the family fun. Face painting, kid's games and pony rides will be joined by a new attraction this year, the 24 foot high Rocky Mountain climbing structure.

Families can take a pontoon boat ride around the pond and learn about this unique habitat on a tour with world-renowned naturalist Peter Alden. Alden has written numerous books, including, The National Audubon Society Field Guide to

New England. There will be animal presentations including the Literary Liama Zoomobile's exotic animals. In addition to the live band, "The Dancing School's" Musical Theatre Troupe will also perform.

Tickets for the Annual Six-Bike raffle may be purchased at the Martins Pond Association Booth on the day of the event. Six children's bikes, along with many other prizes will be raffled off to raise funds for the park.

Martins Pond T-Shirts and hats will be available for purchase. Sales of cookbooks and tupperware also go to help the cause.

Crafty ladies win favors in Wakefield

The Wakefield Arts & Crafts Society ended another successful season with a luncheon attended by approximately 50 members at Angelica's, notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Lorraine Obst and Mary Benavides arranged for the luncheon and provided favors for the attendees. The business meeting was opened by President Marianne Whitney who commented on a successful year.

"Four new members were welcomed into the Society during the year: Joan Blake, Janet Fairfield, Maryangel LaDuc and Jan Shellenberger. Life membership was extended to Gladys Mason, Kathleen Donnelly and Thelma Coakley, while Joan Walker was awarded an honorary membership.

"Vice president Carol MacDougall reported on a well attended and successful annual exhibit and sale. In an effort to allow more visitors to attend, the next Christmas Tea and Sale will be held on Saturday, Dec. 8 rather than on a weekday as in other years. Lorraine Obst announced that 37 signed up for the field trip to the Textile Museum and Quilt Museum in Lowell...."

Wish granted in Burlington

"Juliet Perdichizzi said she would welcome the opportunity to be chairwoman of the Board of Selectmen; her wish has been granted," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"After outgoing Chairman Joseph Impemba congratulated Perdichizzi and Kevin McKelvey for being re-elected to three year terms, the board voted unanimously to elect Perdichizzi to the chair position.

"Member Gary Gianino nominated Perdichizzi and that was seconded by Albert Fay.

"I would like to thank Joe for a year done very well and efficiently as chairman," said Perdichizzi. "It was a very enjoyable year."

"Perdichizzi is beginning her fifth year and second three year term with the selectmen. She was initially elected to her seat in a 1997 special election.

Introducing Juliet, Hazel, Shirley, Marianne, and Carol

"The board voted unanimously to elect Kevin McKelvey as vice chairman."

"Impemba nominated McKelvey, who began his second consecutive term on the board. The nomination was seconded by Fay."

Smoking

From S-1

Peer Leaders is a gender specific program which fosters strength and resiliency in young women. The group is comprised of seven females recruited from the Woburn School system, ages 13-18," writes Youth Advisor Heidi Borque. "The group meets on average of three days per week. The peer leaders present tobacco information to the public in the form of education through anti-tobacco workshops, health fairs, conferences and public appearances."

State-funded programs and initiatives have also sprung up in most communities throughout the region, creating a wealth of resources now available to youths.

"In Wakefield, a school nurse ran a smoking cessation course and several students signed up for the program on their own accord and I think that's very encouraging to see that sort of thing happening," commented Adrienne Rains, Director of Tobacco Control for Wakefield and Lynnfield.

Wakefield is one town which has set a "precedent" with its aggressive school policies regarding smoking.

If caught smoking in school, students are subject to harsh fines - $100 for the first offense, $150 for the second offense and $200 for every offense thereafter. "Interestingly enough, this has made a big difference. There were 40 offenses the year before the policy was implemented. There was less than ten offenses during the (2000-2001) school year," indicated Rains.

"I used to smoke and I've done it in school, but I think I would definitely have thought twice if I knew there was an extreme consequence," commented Alexandraya, 16. "What made me quit was a lot of the anti-smoking ads on TV - they really freaked me out. And I just got tired of worrying about how I was going to get a hold of 'butts'."

Most (local) Health Departments also offer counseling or counseling referrals for underage smokers who wish to kick the habit.

Additionally, Tobacco Control Departments in numerous towns and cities throughout the region have also teamed up to develop anti-smoking campaigns.

"In the past six months, there's been a rigorous campaign against adults who buy cigarettes for underage (smokers)," added Rains. The campaign has included related commercials, which have been aired over 2,500 times, along with newsletters distributed throughout the community and publicity through media outlets.

Underage access to cigarettes and other tobacco products has been greatly reduced through merchant education, which is offered by localized Health Departments.

"I think by working with everyone involved (merchants, adults, and underage smokers) and developing and offering comprehensive programs, we can really get to the root of this problem," said Ruth Brophy, Director of Tobacco Control for Reading, North Reading and Stoneham.

"With one program, peer leaders visit and interact with merchants during compliance checks," added Brophy. "I also visit D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse and Resistance Education) classes and speak with fifth and sixth grade students. It's a great way to reach-out to the kids before they start (smoking)."

According to recent statistics, Reading and Stoneham have shown a decrease in the number of households with smokers over the past five years.

Reading has gone from 26 percent of households to 19 percent, while Stoneham has dropped from 32 percent to 25 percent.

Area hospitals, such as Winchester Hospital and Hallmark Health offer individual as well as group counseling to smokers of all ages.

For more information on smoking cessation and prevention programs, contact your local Health Department.

INFLATABLE ART AT CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

Air can do some amazing things, not the least of which is spark curiosity and creativity. The Wonders of Wind exhibit opens June 28 at the Boston's Children's Museum and runs through the end of the year.

The dynamic exhibit offers visitors the opportunity to experiment with air and wind, create whimsical pieces of art and play in an inflatable wonderland.

The exhibit consists of three sections:

WIND LAB consists of tables that have vertical and horizontal wind sources and bins of material like pinwheels and wiffle balls that allow children to design their own experiments with how wind moves objects differently.

WIND ART STUDIOS is a workshop space, where artist educators will weave science inquiry into the experience of art. Children can use recycle craft materials to make their own sculptures, kits, whirligigs, and windsocks.

INFLATABLE WONDERLAND allow groups of kids to rise up and down on the inflatable "seesaw", proving that air has volume and force. Visitors can play the "inverted field", a maze of inflated tubes hanging from the ceiling.

More information about the museum can be found at <http://www.bostonkids.org>.

New laser treatment for glaucoma

Boston Ophthalmologist and Laser Surgeon Mark A. Latina, M.D., an internationally recognized laser expert, and Coherent Medical Group, a manufacturer of medical lasers, announced that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) had cleared its application to market the Selecta 7000 Glaucoma Laser System. The Selecta 7000 is specifically designed to perform Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty (SLT) invented by Dr. Latina, a new laser technique for the treatment of Open Angle Glaucoma.

Open Angle Glaucoma is the leading cause of preventable blindness in Americans over the age of 40. It is a progressive disease in which the optic nerve is slowly destroyed. It affects over 50 million people worldwide. The only accepted treatment for Open Angle Glaucoma is to lower the pressure within the eye. SLT lowers the eye pressure by using short pulses of low energy laser light to target pigment containing cells within the drainage pathway of the eye, resulting in increased and improved fluid outflow, thereby lowering the eye pressure.

THE SLT ADVANTAGE
The Selective Laser Trabeculoplasty technique is much less traumatic to the eye than the currently used Argon Laser Trabeculoplasty (ALT). ALT produces a focal burn or coagulation damage to the outflow pathway, which leads to scarring of the drainage pathway. In contrast, SLT retains the therapeutic benefit of laser treatment - reduced eye pressure, without scarring or thermal damage to the drainage channels. Dr. Latina, who is a glaucoma and cataract specialist in private practice with offices in Reading, Malden and Boston and is the Medical Director of LaserCare Cosmetic Centers, devised the treatment which can be performed in an ophthalmologist's office. He is an Associate Clinical Professor of Ophthalmology at Tufts University and on the staff at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, Winchester Hospital and Hallmark Health Medical Center.

According to Dr. Latina, "SLT has the potential to change the standard of care for patients with open angle glaucoma and may reduce or eliminate the need for anti-glaucoma medications."

"Prevent Blindness America" and the National Eye Health Program, estimate that the U.S. government spends $1.5 billion annually in terms of social security benefits, lost income, tax revenues and health care expenditures in its fight against glaucoma. Now with the new SLT glaucoma treatment option, there may be incremental economic benefits to the health care system compared to conventional therapy.

SLT is being performed today in many international markets using Coherent's Selecta 7000 Glaucoma Laser System, including Japan where it has been approved for two years by the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare. Coherent has acquired an exclusive license to commercialize SLT and market the relevant laser technology.

On April 29, 2001, as part of a physician symposium, Dr. Latina demonstrated the SLT technology at the American Society of Cataract and Refractive Surgery in San Diego, California.

Travellers: beware of deep vein thrombosis

Travellers should be aware of potentially deadly medical conditions called a Deep Vein Thrombosis (DVT) that poses a serious risk particularly during extended travel. If you plan on travelling you should know the risks symptoms and how to prevent DVT.

DVT results from a blood clot forming in a vein deep in the body, usually in the legs. Occasionally this clot breaks free, travelling to the lung and blocking an artery causing serious injury or even death from a pulmonary embolism. In pregnant women, the embolism can lodge in the placenta and pose a serious risk to the unborn child.

The likelihood of DVT occurring is increased by extended travel that places a passenger in the same position during a trip as in an airplane or car. In fact, airline coach passengers are particularly vulnerable due to tight, densely packed seating and limited ability to get up and move around.

"DVT is a serious problem that all travellers should know about" said Dr. Jeffrey Olin, Director of the Heart and Vascular Institute (HVI) located in New Jersey. "It is preventable if you know your risk, the symptoms and how to lower your chances of developing DVT."

If you have one or more of the following you may have a high risk of developing DVT:

- Are 60 years or older
- Have a family history of clotting disorders.
- Had a recent trauma, accident or surgery.

- Suffer from coronary artery disease.

- Smoke
- Are pregnant or obese.
- Use oral contraceptives.

With the following you may be suffering from DVT:

Tenderness and redness in the affected area.

• Pain and swelling in the affected area due to restricted blood flow.

- Rapid heart beat.

- Cramps.

- Fever

- Sudden, unexplained cough

- Joint pain and soreness.

Here are things you can do to reduce your risk of developing DVT.

- Get up and move around every hour.

- While seated flex your ankles and move your feet.

- Wear elastic stockings.

- Drink plenty of water before and during your trip.

- Cut back on your alcohol consumption.

- Most importantly, if you feel you are at risk, contact your physician.

For more information consult The Heart and Vascular Institute at 973-656-0555 or at www.thehvi.org.

Soy evens skin tone and texture

When you think of soy, you probably think health food. From tofu to soy milk, the nutritional benefits of this mighty little bean have been well documented. Now, there is promising research into the new benefits of soy... for the skin, according to new findings released at the American Academy of Dermatology Meeting in Washington D.C.

"This new research shows that soy has even greater benefits for the skin than researchers and physicians previously understood," says Jeannette Graf, M.D., a clinical researcher on soy and a dermatologist in private practice.

According to recent research by the Skin Research Center at Johnson & Johnson Consumer Companies, Inc., soy proteins can even out skin tone and texture and reduce the appearance of a wide variety of skin discolorations, such as age or sun spots.

"This is exciting news in dermatology. Skin discoloration is one of the most difficult problems that dermatologists treat. Current therapies are often irritating, ineffective and expensive. This new discovery opens many new options," according to Dr. Graf.

Additionally, these new findings demonstrate that soy reduces the appearance of redness caused by acne and sun exposure. It also seems gentle enough for everyday use.

Patients now have easy-to-use and affordable options to treat bothersome skin discolorations.

of the Volunteer' by the United Nations.

"Friel said she started as a Red Cross volunteer in 1956. I used to drive polio victims into Boston for their treatment," she said. The Red Cross had a car stationed in Woburn that volunteers would drive, she recalled.

"Later, Friel began volunteering with the Bloodmobile. She noted there are many things volunteers can't do now that they were allowed to in years gone by, but medical and liability issues have become more complex.

"Friel was born in Woburn in the Choate Hospital and grew up in the South End on Buckman Street.

"She and her husband Daniel will celebrate 60 years of marriage in July. They have four children: Daniel, John, Dennis, and Noreen....

"O'Connor was born and raised in Natick but moved to Woburn in 1955 with her husband, John, who passed away last July. She has six children: Patrick, James, Joseph, John, Kathleen and Daniel, four of whom were high school valedictorians, she noted with pride.... "Anyone interested in more information on volunteering,

CANINE HIP DYSPLASIA

Canine hip dysplasia is a genetic arthritic condition that affects one or both hip joints. The problem is characterized by a partial or complete dislocation of the hip joint.

Symptoms of the disease include leg pain, lack of coordination and a limp or unsteady gait. Difficulty rising from a prone position is common.

When the condition is severe, symptoms may appear as early as two years of age. Other dogs may not experience problems until they are six to ten years old.

Hip dysplasia often leads to arthritis as the cartilage erodes due to the stress of an improper ball-and-socket fit. The condition is most common in larger breed dogs, especially German Shepherds, St. Bernards, Labrador Retrievers, Pointers and Setters.

P.S. Medication and/or surgery are common treatment methods for canine hip dysplasia.

Should your dog be exhibiting some or all of the above symptoms, he needs to be seen by your veterinarian for X-rays and a consultation. Appointments can be made by calling us at:

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

How cool are these 'guys'!

Couldn't be better in Tewksbury

"Out of 60 applications from various student councils within the state, Tewksbury Memorial High School's Student Council was one of fifteen to receive the prestigious Excellence Award," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The award, presented during the Spring Student Council Conference at the Sheraton Resort in Hyannis, is given based upon the accomplishments of the Student Council."

"A book detailing information about the T.M.H.S. Student Council, its operations, leadership responsibilities, community service and other items, was submitted to the Massachusetts Association of Student Councils (MASC). The MASC uses the book's information to recommend student council awards in one of three categories: Honor Council, Medalist and Honorable Mention."

"Not all who apply receive an award. Tewksbury Memorial High School was in the top fifteen, which means that its Student Council was at or above the 'medalist' status."

"It took a long time to put it together," said student Michael Sitar. He informed the School Committee of the prestigious award at its meeting.

"According to Sitar, it took approximately a year to create the book that the T.M.H.S. submitted to the MASC."

"The outline for the Excellence Award includes its history, community service goals and expectations for each individual council," said Dolly Sullivan, the Assistant Principal Advisor to the Student Council.

"Student Cathy Lamothe was chairperson for the project, compiling the information in book form. Student Matthew Garcia is the outgoing President of the Student Council, and Beth Baker is the treasurer...."

"The Tewksbury Memorial High School Council has seven goals: to act as a channel through which all students have a voice in policy and decision making; to conduct elections each year within the council body; to hold 'spirit activities' throughout the year through rallies, dances, and other events to acknowledge student achievement with awards; to show appreciation of support staff and teachers; to conduct at least one community service project during the year; and to provide communication about activities through postings and other media."

"When I took over the student council, it was only a small part of what the school was," said Ms. Sullivan. "Now we have upwards of 45 kids...."

...or in North Reading

"New numbers! Neeeww Nummmbers!!!" notes Mike Silvestro in the North Reading Transcript's "Deliberator."

"What would gym class be without Mr. Kipnes' raspy call? 'Newww Nummmbers!!!"

"Unfortunately, when Mr. Kipnes retires after this school year, a new generation of North Reading students will only understand the shadow of his presence, but never know the man behind the legend. After a long and distinguished career in education as both a physical education teacher for 36 years and as basketball coach for 33 years, Mr. Kipnes will leave our school system, and his absence will be greatly felt."

"Almost everyone who has passed through the North Reading public school system in recent years has, or heard, a story about Mr. Kipnes. Surely they center around his extraordinary sense of humor and enthusiasm, or his antics at a basketball game, but they will stay forever in our memories. Mr. Kipnes has not only served as an educator, but also as a friend of students in North Reading."

"This year, my last in the high school (unless something goes horribly, horribly wrong), I have gym class first period. It's not a bad first period course by any means. It's far better than waking up to pre-calculus first thing in the morning. We play floor hockey, or his version of 'real volleyball,' or the current favorite, 'tennisball'...baseball with a tennis racket... if the weather is nice. But it isn't the physical activity that really wakes me up in the morning. It's walking into a big friendly, 'Hey-y-y Spi-i-ike, how's it going?' from Mr. Kipnes."

"I, and the rest of North Reading High School students, wish the best to Mr. Kipnes in whatever he decides to do after he leaves. We also wish the best of luck to Mrs. Kipnes...!"

...but the girls have it, in Lynnfield

"The Lynnfield High School Destination Imagination team fulfilled the organization's Incredible Techeffects challenge to find themselves representing the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, for the second consecutive year, at the World Finals in Tennessee," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"This all-girl team built a freestanding stage that included complex wiring of a dimensional light display, a 3-D art-deco portrait with movable character traits that interacted with their special effects, and a visual transition of an image changing into a werewolf. Their performance included special effects of a team-designed storm sound machine, a hovering ghost and an air cannon that propelled cold fog."

"The team's profound statement was that 'no matter how insignificant you feel, or what others tell you, you are important and therefore should put forth your best effort. One person can make a difference and you might just be that person...'"

"Due to the generosity of many of the town's different churches, businesses, organizations, and individuals, the team was able to raise the funds needed to send them on the trip. Alex Casey, Amy Sawin, Kristin McGeorge, Nicolette McGeorge, Libby Alexander, Caila Nickerson, and Ashley Tranfaglia wish to thank all the generous and caring people who contributed to their success...."

Adds interest

Designer gate personalizes yard

Flowers, calligraphy, landscapes and more all make for beautiful gates and fences. Personalizing your fence is the latest craze in home decorating. Splashes of color brighten up yards year-round with cheerful, creative designs.

"Decorating your fence and gate is an inexpensive way to personalize your yard. It only requires a creative idea and a few gallons of stain," said Pat Coughlin, manager, brand development for The Flood Company. "There are so many color options available to consumers today in solid color and semi-transparent stains, that the only limit to decorating a fence or gate is your imagination."

Coughlin offers these suggestions to decorating your fence or gate:

- Faux-Finishing. Who says that faux-finishing is restricted to the interior of your home? Faux-finishing is an easy and inexpensive painting technique that adds dimension and color to any surface - including a gate. If your fence is stained a light solid color, use a sponge to blot a contrasting darker shade on top.

- Stencil. Shapes, lettering and even landscapes can be created with the use of stencils, and it presents an excellent opportunity to personalize your gate. If you love the water, stencil sailboats or fish on the posts and gate. Sunbursts and flowers will bring you sunshine all year round. If your fence surrounds a Japanese rock garden, consider stenciling Japanese lettering up the posts. Your local arts and crafts store will have hundreds of stencils to choose from to help you generate ideas.

Cords

Not one size fits all uses

Just because the first extension cord you find in your garage has the length to reach the outlet across the room, it doesn't mean it's the proper one to use for the task at hand.

If a power tool is drawing more current than an extension cord can carry, it may cause the cord and tool to overheat to create a fire.

Before using an extension cord to help power an electrical tool or appliance, the safety professionals encourage consumers to ask themselves three important questions.

Will I use the cord indoors or outdoors? What is the total wattage rating of the appliances I'll use with the cord? How far is the nearest outlet from where I'll be working.

Extensions cords are labeled with valuable information as to the use, size and wattage rating of the cord. Cords are offered in many lengths and are marked with a size of "gauge".

Cords From 5-11

The gauge is based on the American Wire Gauge (AWG) System, in which the larger the wire, the smaller the AWG number. For example, a 12 gauge wire would be larger, and can power larger wattage appliances than a 14 gauge wire.

Before deciding which extension cord to use, first carefully read the manufacturer's instructions for the power tools you will be using. These booklets contain important information about your tools and will provide instructions on use. The booklets will also indicate whether the tools are suitable for use outdoors. Likewise, the first step in determining which extension cord you will need is to decide whether you will be using the appliance indoors or outdoors.

Extension cords that can be used outdoors will be clearly marked, "Suitable for Use with Outdoor Appliances." Never use and indoor extension cord outdoors; it could result in an electric shock or hazard.

To determine which size or gauge cord you will need, you will have to determine how long you need the cord to be. A cord, based on its gauge, can power an appliance of a certain wattage only at specific distances. As the cord gets longer, the current carrying capacity of the cord gets lower. For example, a 16 gauge extension cord less than 50 feet in length can power a 1625 watt (W) appliance. A 16 gauge cord that is longer than 50 feet can only power an appliance of 1250 W.

Follow these safety tips when using extension cords with power tools:

- Look for the UL Mark on the extension cord you purchase. The UL Mark means that representative samples of the cord have been tested for foreseeable safety hazards.

- Store cords indoors when not in use.

- Never keep an extension cord plugged-in when not in use.

- Do not use extension cords that are damaged.
